Testimony sign-up slated for State Board meeting

Anyone interested in providing testimony at the State Board of Higher Education meeting, Nov. 18, should sign up by Tuesday at the ASUO office in Suite 4 of the EMU.

The early sign-up is designed to avoid the possible confusion of random testimony at the Friday meeting. Persons who sign up in advance will be guaranteed time to testify.

The board meeting, which will be held in the EMU Ballroom, will be the last time the state board convenes on this campus this year.

The main issue of discussion will be possible state board divestiture of stock held in corporations doing business in South Africa.

Sport seminar scheduled

A seminar on "Sport and Apartheid in South Africa," is slated for 7:30 tonight in 105 Esslinger. The speaker will be Jim Santomier, sports sociology instructor, who will introduce two South Africans to comment on the issue.

The session is sponsored by Phi Epsilon Kappa, a physical education student group. All interested persons are welcome to attend.

Swimsuits shown tonight

A scholarship benefit swimwear fashion show will be held tonight at 7:30 by the University Mothers' Club.

The trunk showing, with limited modeling, will be given by Charlotte Hartley, fashion coordinator for Jantzen, Inc. of Portland.

The benefit event, which includes refreshments and door prizes, will be held in the downstairs auditorium of the First Congregational Church, 1050 E. 23rd Ave.

Tickets, at $2 each, are available from club members and at the door. Proceeds will support the club's scholarships to the University for students throughout the state of Oregon. Last year the club made nine awards.

State employees off Friday

Most of the University classified employees will take off Friday when state workers celebrate Veteran's Day.

Oregon Hall offices will be closed, according to the Staff Personnel Office, but the Physical Plant, EMU and Student Health Center will remain open with "skeleton crews."

Faculty and students will not have the day off Friday, however.
