

Disney seeks young talent

The opportunity to gain educational work experience in Disneyland or Walt Disney World is available to local performing arts students through auditions in Portland Monday.

The All-American College Singers and Marching Band Program, a specially designed Disney summer program for college freshmen, sophomores and juniors, gives interested students a chance to work in the showplaces.

Disney staff members will be auditioning in 13 cities around the nation for 42 talented collegiate performers to be placed in each park for summer 1978. Twenty musicians will be chosen for the All-American College Marching Band for each park, while 12 singers and dancers will be selected for each park as All-American College Singers. In addition, an eight-piece pop-rock supporting group for the College Singers will be placed at both Disneyland and Walt Disney World and another two dancers will be chosen for each marching band.

Participants receive three hours of classroom or workshop experience and four to five hours of performance experience five days a week. Each accepted student will receive a scholarship to cover the classroom instruction, a grant to cover the cost of housing and a stipend for the summer season.

Program participants will be selected on the basis of talent, experience and potential. In addition to singers and dancers, auditions will be held for trumpet, trombone, french horn, tuba, saxophone, piano, guitar, electric bass guitar and percussion instrumentalists. The minimum age required for auditioners is 18.

Interested students should bring music to sing, dance or play to the University of Portland Monday.

No written application is required.
