

Carter concludes travels, to meet economic heads

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Pres. Carter ends his current seven-nation tour today with a bow in Brussels to the group of countries that underpins U.S. foreign policy — Western Europe.

"The commitment of the American government and people to the security of Europe is absolute," he said in Paris.

In Brussels he scheduled six and a half hours for visits to headquarters of the European Common Market and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, along with talks with King Baudouin and Belgian officials.

He will be the first American president to visit Berlaymont, the 13-story steel and glass headquarters of the European Commission, which runs the Common Market. He will confer for nearly one and a half hours with Pres. Roy Jenkins and the 12 other commissioners in their offices on the top floor.

The commission speaks for the joint economic interests of nine countries with a total population bigger than the United States: Britain, Ireland, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Denmark and Luxembourg. Three others have asked to join: Greece, Spain and Portugal.

"The United States," he promised the French, "will give its unqualified support to what you and your partners in the nine are doing to strengthen European cooperation — for we see European strength and unity as a boon and not as a threat to us."

On Wednesday the U.S. Government announced it would act to support the price of the dollar, which had been dropping sharply in Western Europe and Japan. Until that announcement, the Berlaymont meeting promised to be uncomfortable.

Europeans had been pressing U.S. authorities to do something because the situation was making American goods cheaper and more competitive, contributing to unemployment and recession in Europe.

Now the visit will give Jenkins, a former British chancellor of the exchequer, more of a chance to air his pet plan for bringing the Europeans closer together and stabilizing currency exchanges: a pooling of pounds, marks, francs and others into a single West European currency.

House ethics panel seeks Tongsun Park

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House ethics committee is seeking a voluntary agreement for Tongsun Park to testify before it, but is not withdrawing plans to subpoena him if necessary, Special Counsel Leon Jaworski said today.

Park, the businessman-host accused of trying to buy congressional favors for South Korea, has agreed to questioning in Seoul and to return to Washington to testify in Justice Department proceedings. But he did not agree to answer questions in the parallel inquiry being conducted by the committee.

The South Korean foreign ministry said plans for Park's testimony to the Justice Department might be jeopardized if the committee insisted on its subpoena.

Foreign Minister Park Tongjin, no relation to Tongsun Park, said in Seoul that he did not consider the congressional subpoena a subject for new negotiations between the two governments.

Nuke challenge rejected

CONDON (AP) — Gilliam County commissioners have rejected a challenge to Portland General Electric Co.'s conditional land-use permit for two nuclear reactors near Arlington.

The commissioners Wednesday afternoon upheld the County Planning Commission's earlier approval of the Pebble Springs nuclear power plants on land that was zoned for agricultural use.

The Planning Commission action had been appealed by 17 area residents. They argued at a hearing last month that adequate consideration had not been given to social and economic impacts or to prepayment of taxes. They also contended that groundwater studies were needed.

Commissioner Leo Barnett said those who appealed the decision were "simply opposing Pebble Springs" and not the land use ruling.

Rainstorms drown drought

SAN FRANCISCO — Gale-driven rain and snow showers pounded California again Thursday, further swelling hopes that the two-year drought may have lost its clutch on the state.

"We are looking good," said Alex Cunningham, deputy director of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s Drought Emergency Task Force. "This storm has dropped significant amounts of rain in northern California and snow in the Sierra. But we are not out of the woods yet."

He said reservoirs remain drier than last year despite the parade of Pacific storms that have marched through California this winter.

Dollar snaps out of slump

LONDON — The dollar made a dramatic comeback in world money markets Thursday after the United States government bought dollars on the open market to snap the currency out of its year-long decline.

But some foreign exchange dealers called the dollar's revival a "knee-jerk" reaction to U.S. intervention in the markets and said it could be short-lived.

They said the causes of the dollar's troubles, such as a foreign trade deficit that could total $27 billion for 1977, still remain to be dealt with.

Hays may stage comeback

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio — Former Rep. Wayne Hays said Thursday he'll "run for something" in 1978, two years after leaving his seat in Congress in the midst of a sex scandal.

The 66-year-old politician, whose career in politics began in 1939, said he will "make an announcement around the first of February."

"But what office it will be I have not made a firm decision yet," he said.

Hays, who resigned from Congress Sept. 1, 1976, said he may run for the Ohio Legislature, in which he served as senator 1941-42. He said he also is considering a race for the Belmont County commissioner's job in his native eastern Ohio.
