A pioneer in exploring fine arts

Maude I. Kerns Art Center has been a nonprofit, democratically run, community oriented, educational association ever since its incorporation as the Eugene Art Center in 1955. Their sole purpose, then and now, was to provide an educational art facility for the people of Eugene, a place where artists could both show their work and teach their craft to others.

Through the help of one Maude Irvine Kerns and several others in the community, they have made great strides toward achieving their goals. But it's an ongoing process and in order to continue serving the community, they need community input. Does the community want what the Art Center has offer? See Page 4B inside.
