

Boyd holds visiting hours

University Pres. William Boyd will hold open student hours Wednesday and Tuesday, Feb. 14.

Any University student who wishes to speak with the president is invited to visit with Boyd during the designated student hours. No appointments are necessary.

The president's student hours for Wednesday will be held from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. Student hours on Feb. 14 will be held from 11 a.m. to noon.

Russian flu approaching

The Russians are coming to Oregon — not Brezhnev, but the influenza.

The new flu virus, similar to the strain causing epidemics in Russia and Hong Kong the last two months, will probably reach Oregon within two weeks, according to the Oregon State Health Division.

Although little vaccine is available in Oregon, says Dr. Avard Long, director of the University's Student Health Center, no problems are anticipated. It is much less serious than last year's swine flu, and he says a vaccine isn't expected until next year.

The virus is expected to affect primarily children and adolescents, but it may afflict older persons as well, the health division says.

During the past five years, the flu season reaches its peak in early March, but the health division says the Russian flu may extend this year's season.

Danish study session set

Marvin Slind, foreign study adviser at Washington State University, will be here today to discuss a foreign study program in Denmark. He will speak at 2:30 p.m. in 360 Oregon Hall.

The program, which is located in Copenhagen, offers a semester program for students of liberal arts as well as architecture, design and landscape architecture. The program is administered by Denmark's International Student Committee and offers courses in English with instruction by Danish professors.

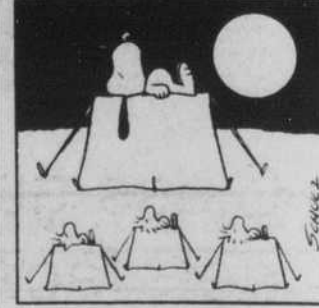

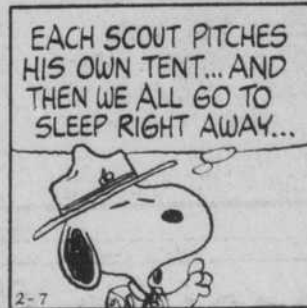

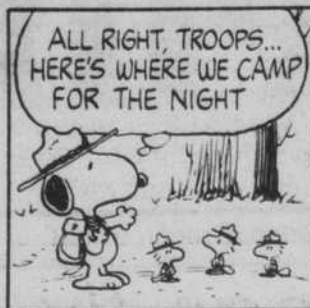

Slind will discuss the program and answer questions about admissions, application procedures and the nature of the program.

For further information about this and other opportunities to study abroad, contact Kathy Allely, International Student Services, 686-3206.

Monday's ODE errors

Monday's Emerald incorrectly identified Don Chalmers, in a story concerning a legal brief upholding the state board's divestment decision. Chalmers is the director of the Office of Student Advocacy, not an attorney.

PEANUTS® by Charles M. Schulz

Poli sci class to host Straub today for talk

Gov. Bob Straub will be on campus today to speak to a political science class and field questions from students.

From 11 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. Straub will speak to the Political Parties class in 154 Straub Hall. At 12:30 p.m., the governor will address questions at the law student lounge, first floor of the law school.

'Save the seals' meeting today

Persons interested in helping the University Survival Center continue its "Save the Harp Seal" campaign are invited to an organizational meeting today at 4 p.m. in the EMU, room to be posted. Members will discuss ways to educate the campus the community about the campaign and are open to any ideas for further fundraising.

For more information contact Jim in the Survival Center, 686-4356.

Jazz group sets concert

The University Jazz Ensemble will perform at Beall Concert Hall Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The group, under the direction of Ed Kammerer, music school professor, will perform compositions by Mike Francis, Jimmy Heath and Steve Katz.

In addition, the Ralph Hardimon Sextet, comprised of members of the ensemble, will perform works by Ornette Coleman, Charlie Parker, Ralph Towner, Wayner Shorter and Sonny Fortune.

The concert is free and the public is invited.

Solar energy talk slated

The public is invited to a free solar energy seminar at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday in the EMU, room to be posted.

Featured speaker will be John Pool, owner of a mobile home park in Salem. Pool has built a system of collectors to provide solar energy to heat the park's swimming pool and to pre-heat water for washing.

The seminar is sponsored by the University Solar Energy Center.

Body specialist to speak

Nationally renowned Canadian kinanthropometrist, William Ross, is scheduled to speak in the EMU, room to be posted, Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.

Ross will present recent research findings on the issue of "ideal body types for athletes in a whole range of sports," according to the sponsoring group Phi Epsilon Kappa (professional physical education students).

All items must be turned in by 2 p.m. the day before publication at the Emerald office, Room 300, EMU.

A MAN'S REACH SHOULD EXCEED HIS GRASP...

When you think about it— isn't the point of life reaching out? Only when people are secure, brave and open enough to reach out to others does life begin to yield the joy, the fulfillment, we expect from it.

Most of us think we are reaching out: for the job, the future, others in need, the ones we love. But, if we're honest, we aren't reaching out at all. We're simply grabbing for security: a life that's safe, predictable, and only goes so far... limited, and perhaps, limiting.

THE PAULISTS believe in reaching out... to people who need to hear The Gospel, people who are lonely and confused, people yearning for truth, for something to believe in—in college dorms, on city streets, in slums, in suburbs, or wherever they may be.

We reach out because we're missionaries of the Catholic Church, a group of priests dedicated to proclaiming The Gospel in our times because we believe God is reaching out to every one of us.

If you think you can reach out as we do, if you think God may be calling you to a life of service as an inventive, modern, dedicated priest, write THE PAULISTS—a group of men who share a holy vision and live that vision in a free and friendly way.
