

Summer camp jobs open

The University Job Service will sponsor on-campus interviews for three summer camps in Washington beginning Monday, and interested students should sign up now for an interview in Room 262 Oregon Hall, or call Pam at 686-3239.

An interviewer from Camp Sealh, located on Vashon Island, about 22 miles from Seattle, Wash., will be here Monday. A representative from Camp Killoqua near Everett, Wash. will be interviewing students Wednesday.

Two interviewers from Four Winds Westward Ho will be on campus Feb. 22. This private camp is located on Oreus Island, situated in the San Juan Islands of Washington.

Renaissance music on tap

The University Consort will perform secular music of the German Renaissance 2 p.m. Feb. 28, at the University Museum of Art.

The consort, organized more than 10 years ago by Harold Owen, University music professor, consists of six musicians who specialize in performances of early music.

Besides singing, the group plays a number of early instruments, including recorders, krummhorns, gemhorns, viols and various percussion instruments.

Members are Mary Ann Wish, soprano; Susan Kuyper, soprano; Chris Olson, alto; Hal Owen, tenor and counter-tenor; Bob Hurwitz, bass and James Miller, tenor and bass.

The program is devoted to part songs, instrumental music and solo songs from the early 16th century German composers Isaac and his pupil Ludwig Senfl, and some of their contemporaries.

The songs depict a wide range of moods, according to Owen, from "lusty drinking songs to songs of despair and longing. Some were written for the court, while others were for street carnivals," he says.

The performance is free to the public.

Assassination of JFK topic of slideshow

A free slideshow on "Why the CIA Killed JFK" will be presented in the EMU, room to be posted, today at 7:30 p.m.

Members of the Assassination Committee allege their photo overlays, now showing on the West Coast, are positive proof Howard Hunt and Frank Sturgis of the Central Intelligence Agency killed former Pres. John Kennedy.

Communication expert to speak

The president of a Los Angeles management consulting firm will be in Eugene today to speak to the 22nd annual meeting of the College Food Service Association (CFSA).

Carol Sapin Gold is the president of a consulting firm specializing in training and development and known for its techniques in stressing better interpersonal communication and practical motivation for employees.

Gold will speak on effective management at the conference's opening work session tonight at 8:30 in the Valley River Inn.

Other featured speakers for the food service conference will be Roy Bardsley, Bardsley and Haslacher Marketing Research, Portland, who will talk about how opinion surveys improve customer relations, and Bob Knight of the Hobart Company, makers of kitchen appliances, who will talk about energy savings as related to food service equipment.

Civilization film shows tonight

The third film in the "Civilization" series with Sir Kenneth Clark, titled "Romance and Reality" will be shown at 7:30 p.m., today.

The location for this episode is Court Room 1, City Hall 1, 777 Pearl St. The remaining series will be at Laurelwood Recreation Bldg., 2700 Columbia St.

Call Vivienne at 687-5353 for more information.

German Scholar to speak

Helmut Kreuzer, a literary scholar at the Gesamthochschule Siegen, a university of Siegen, Germany, will deliver public lectures at the University today and Friday.

Kreuzer, currently a visiting professor of German at the University of Houston, will speak at 8 p.m. in the EMU, room to be posted, on "The Image of Emerson in German Literature."

At 4 p.m. Friday, he will deliver a second lecture entitled "The Literature of the 1970s in West Germany" in Room 214 of Friendly Hall.

Tonight's lecture will be delivered in English. The Friday lecture will be delivered in German. Both are open free to the public.

The author of four books, Kreuzer is also the editor or co-editor of several scholarly publications and has published numerous articles in academic journals. In the past 10 years he has served as a visiting professor of German at Rice University, Columbia University, Washington University, Stanford University, the University of Wisconsin and the University of Cairo (Egypt).

The University lectures are being co-sponsored by the Department of German and Russian and the University's Comparative Literature program.
