

Sex film to be presented

The Marriage Education Center will present a workshop on "Exploring Sexuality: An Evening Film Workshop," Wednesday from 7 to 10 p.m. It is sponsored by the Oregon Personnel and Guidance Association (OPGA) and will take place in the auditorium of the education center of School District 4J, 200 N. Monroe St.

The focus of the workshop will be an opportunity to view and explore issues concerning human sexuality. The film "Sexuality and Communication" will be shown, made by Beryl and Noam Cherniak, two well-known Canadian sex therapists.

Workshop facilitators are Lynn and Demetri Lontos, founders of the Marriage Education Center, a non-profit educational organization in Eugene.

Admission to the workshop is free to OPGA members and is open to the public at a cost of $2.50 per person. Further information is available from the Marriage Education Center at 342-1010.

Color prints by Henry Holmes Smith, photographic teacher, lecturer and writer will be exhibited in the Photography At Oregon Gallery, University Museum of Art, beginning today through April 12.

The museum is open noon to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday. Born in 1909 at Bloomington, Ill., Smith began making photographs in 1923, while also pursuing special interests in cartooning, theater and writing. His first color prints were made in 1933.

After intensive private work in color theory, including teaching at the New Bauhaus, Chicago, Smith was asked to join the faculty of the Indiana University Art Department faculty in 1947. Among his credits there was development of the first history of photography course in a college art department in 1848. He retired from that university this year.

Among the prints in the current exhibit are Smith's color dye transfer prints of "refraction drawings."

Smith explains, "In ordinary practice a lens and camera will generally picture a lighted object in such a way that the object takes on more importance than the light. I would prefer to reverse the roles of light and object by emphasizing light's behavior."

Smith's camera-less photography depicts themes both from everyday life and the world of myth and ancient legend.

Internship session slated

The Wallace School of Community Service and Public Affairs invites all students to an informal discussion at noon today in Hendricks Hall, with Dick Takei, director of the Child and Adolescent Section of the Oregon State Division of Mental Health.

Takei will discuss available internships in the child and adolescent section. Students are needed to investigate the problems of recidivism of youth and children in all state agencies and programs, such as the mental health, juvenile justice and the children's services divisions.

Students interested in learning how they can contribute to this project and others during spring term and the summer months are strongly urged to attend the discussion.

Mothers' club slates meeting

The University Mothers' Club State Board will meet Wednesday at noon in the Warner Gallery at the Oriental Art Museum.

Following a business meeting, there will be a brief tour and introduction to the treasures displayed in the museum.

No lunch will be served, but there will be coffee and cookies. Parking will be available in the EMU parking lot.

Center offers art sessions

Interested in drawing or painting from a model? Six sessions will be offered at the Community Center for the Performing Arts, 291 W. 8th St., each Tuesday night, beginning March 7.

Each session will be from 6:30 to 10 p.m. and the cost is $6 per person through April 11.

Fees should be paid in advance at the Lane Regional Arts Council, 795 Willamette St., or by calling Gary Buckendorf at 342-6458 to reserve space.

Beginning and experienced painters and drawers are welcome.

Summer show seeking talent

Applications are now being taken for performers for the Eugene Parks and Recreation Department's Summer Showcase on the Mall. Mimes, musicians, magicians, dancers, actors, jugglers, medicine shows and ethnic groups are all encouraged to apply.

Performances will be from May through September. Call 687-5353 for more information.

Bathtub squeeze coming

There's still time to register for the YWCA's bathtub squeeze, scheduled for Wednesday from 10:30 to 2:30 p.m.

Several teams have registered to try their hands at jamming into a bathtub in any possible form according to Frank Giannino, who is organizing the event.

The squeeze is scheduled as a fund-raiser for the YWCA. Teams of at least 20 persons will register at 50 cents per member and have the chance of winning a free dinner at the Spaghetti Warehouse and recognition in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Proceeds will be contributed to University YWCA programs, including the Big Brother/Big Sister programs, the Exceptional Friendship program, the Handicapped Swim program and others.

LCC hosts student art

Some 40 pieces of student work in various media are being shown through March 9 at the Lane Community College Gallery and a public reception for the artists will be held in the gallery from 1 to 3 today.

The display includes sculpture, painting, drawing, weaving, ceramics and jewelry, reports Harold Hoy.

Located in the Art/Math Building, the gallery is open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday. It is closed weekends. Admission is free.

Counseling seminars set

Ever have a sneaking hunch there is a game going on and you're not in it? The Good Neighbor Project of Family Counseling Services is offering an evening seminar, "The Game of Life," Thursday from 7-10 p.m.

Led by staff members Jerry Edin, Chet Cox and Allan Flood, the seminar will be held at Whitaker School staff at 21 N. Grand St. A donation of no more than $4 is requested. For more information, call 342-2551.
