Arrests, stocks to be discussed at meeting today

The Southern Africa Liberation Support Committee (SALSC) will hold a press conference today at 9 a.m. to answer recent statements made by the University, Higher Education and Attorney General Jim Redden concerning divestment and the arrest of 23 persons Jan. 25th.

SALSC spokespersons say they will be prepared to disprove recent statements made about the illegality of selling state stocks and the University's positions of being unable to dismiss charges against those apartheid protesters arrested last month.

In case of rain, the press conference will be held in the Century room EMU.

Yoga nun gives spirit talk

An informal talk on "Spiritual Liberation and Service to Humanity," will be given Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the EMU, room to be posted. The guest speaker will be Didi Vikashini, one of only two Ananda Marga yoga nuns currently in the United States.

Vikashini is originally from England and received her training as a yoga renunciate in an Ananda Marga training center in Sweden. She has been teaching yoga philosophy and practicing for two years on the East Coast.

Vikashini is also a prominent figure in the Progressive Women's Spiritual Association.

The talk is free of charge.

Oberlin organist to play

David Boe, dean of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, will give the final performance of the Early-Keyboard Festival when he performs Sunday at 4 p.m. at Central Lutheran Church, 18th Avenue and Potter Street.

Boe will perform on the church's organ, which is the largest ever built by top United States builder John Brombough. The program will include works by Buxtehude, J.S. Bach, C.P.E. Bach and Mendelssohn.

Boe also will serve as a judge in the Close scholarship awards competition at the University School of Music while he is in Eugene.

Tickets for Sunday's concert may be purchased at the door. The cost is $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students.

Music competition slated

Four adjudicators from around the nation will judge the annual Ruth Loraine Close Scholarship competition Friday and Saturday at Beall Concert Hall.

The judges are David Boe, dean of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music; Ezra Laderman, composer-in-residence at the State University of New York in Binghamton and an internationally known composer; Jane Weidensaul, assistant professor of music history at William Patterson College in New Jersey and a professional harpist and Gebor Rejto, professor of cello at the University of Southern California.

The auditions for the awards will begin each day at 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. The auditions are open to the public.

Winners of the scholarship awards may receive as much as $2,000 to continue their education at the University.

Inventors to congregate

Inventors Workshop International announces its second general meeting at Chemeketa College, 400 Lancaster Dr., N.E. Salem, at 7 p.m. Monday.

Ted Swanson, patent attorney from Aloha, will speak at the meeting on the patent process and his new program in the marketing field. Swanson is a teacher of marketing and has written a book on the subject.

Inventors Workshop International is a nonprofit inventors organization composed of inventors dedicated to guiding the individual inventor through development, protection and eventual marketing of his idea. Interested persons should come ready with inventing, patenting and marketing questions and be prepared to meet many fellow inventors.

Woodwinds set Sunday show

A woodwind quintet will perform Sunday from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. on the main floor of the Eugene Public Library, West 13th and Olive streets. The performance is free.

Selections will be drawn from Hadyn, Piere, Arnold and Zaninelli.

Chamber choir to sing Sunday

The University Chamber Choir, under the direction of James Miller, music school professor, will perform Sunday at 8 p.m. in Beall Concert Hall.

The group will sing several compositions, including works by Arcadelt, Schubert, Liszt, Werle, Britten and Haydn.

Plans start for ed session

A meeting will be held Saturday to plan for the New Age Education Conference to be held in Olympia, Wash. in May.

The local meeting will be from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday at Harris Hall, in the Lane County Courthouse.

The conference will be sponsored by the Cascadian Regional Library (CAREL) to share educational experiences and the development of experiences, insights and ideas among interested persons.

Innovations in education will be examined from many different perspectives, providing for the needs of traditional and alternative school teachers, parents, students and others.

CAREL is a non-profit information network with main offices in Eugene. For more information, call Nancy at 343-0613.
