

...i ate it al

OGRE ruling halts rush; Geek boasts defiance

The Oregon Geek Relief Enforcement (OGRE) recently ruled that all sororities and fraternities keep a lid on house membership, and students interested in the law should contact OGRE offices.

According to OGRE spokespersons, the new law states that University Geek living violates HR 216; thus, houses may no longer rush to attract students in order to expand membership.

"With the turnovers we pride ourselves in," Fred Frat, president of Interfraternity Commitment

(IFC), "we'll never be able to maintain status quo. Thanks to OGRE, we'll die without fresh faces and pocketbooks."

But Stud Stevebaker, Kappa Pig social chairer, says OGRE will not affect that fraternity's rush antics.

"For every 20 kegs consumed, we'll continue to pledge one member," Stevebaker boasts. "Who cares about the law."

Other Geeks to refused comment.

Tax ripoff help offered in class

A night class in tax evasion and avoidance will be offered this spring by members of the Shy Lock business fraternity.

The course aims to help students understand tax laws, what they can legally and illegally get away with and how to juggle more than one set of books.

A guest speaker from the "100 Club" — a group of persons who earn more than $100,000 a year and pay no taxes — is scheduled for April 15. Also, prominent businessmen from Allenwood Prison will address the class. No ethics are required.

Walnuts

ALL RIGHT, LET'S SEE WHAT WE HAVE HERE FOR OUR EVENING MEAL...

I BROUGHT THE MUSTARD AND KETCHUP... WHO BROUGHT THE HOT DOGS?

NO ONE DID? WELL I GUESS THIS GIVES US A CHANCE FOR ANOTHER SURVIVAL LESSON...

Koughman's
off campus

We invite you to attend our free makeup clinic.
Guaranteed results

Before

After

FREE PARKING ON TOP OF STORE

0893 W. 400th

Only natives win the game

Students who wish to become Oregon residents are asked to contact Ron Charmers in the Office of Student Adequacy.

"The residency game is one you can't win," Charmers says of non-natives who try to play for in-state tuition. He adds, "If you weren't born in this state, you might as well pay the price."

Students attending institutes of higher education can achieve residency only by fulfilling certain domicile points.

Charmers says students may qualify for residency only after: residing six years in Oregon in their own homes, voting on the District 40 congressional ballot May 23, being financially independent for 12 years, paying Oregon personal income tax and pronouncing "Oregon" correctly 10 consecutive times.

"But don't get your hopes up too high," Charmers warns. "You support me too."

Name your Worsted fave

The Worsted Award for distinguished teaching has now opened nominations for outstanding faculty members.

Students and staff may submit names of teachers whom they feel are most eligible for the coveted honor.

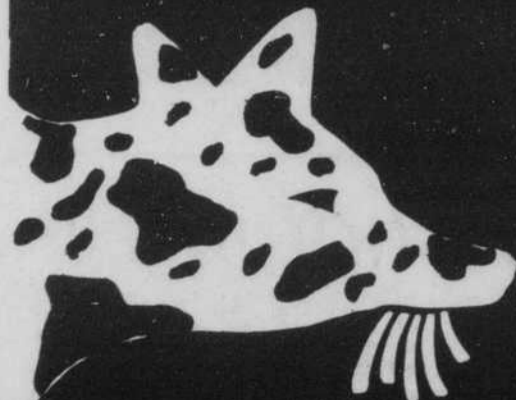

Qualifications include the following: Teachers must spend no more than three hours per week in the classroom, with less than one office hour per week.

Nominees should have no time to spend with students. Instead, they should have at least two best-sellers annually, in addition to 13 published journal articles.

Teachers must be tenured, male and more than 60 years old.

SCRUFFY'S

13th & Odor

For the 99th consecutive week...

Boxe and Slezzel

Friday & Saturday 9-2

($5 cover — "we're a class act")

On the Big Screen

Sunday 4:30

Portland's finest — Midget wrestling

Coburg kid vs. Stompin' Stumpy

FREE — 3 week old popcorn

Oregon Daily Immorald

The Oregon Daily Immorald is published annually by a group of malcontent, perverse journalists who emerge from their regular slave labor camp to churn out biting satire, witty vignettes and stuff National Lampoon would toss out in a minute. For extra copies of today's issue, send $10 to First Bank of Geneva, Geneva, Switzerland, account #89234.

Any similarity between the material contained herein and any real person, places or things is purely coincidental.

The Immorald was more or less coordinated by Chris Norman, who was a constant pain in the ass nagging the staff for stories.

Staff Infections

Kevin Harden	Overripe
Tom Jackson	In season
Jerril Nilson	Distant, moody
Marv Fjordbeck	Man about town
Cheri O'Neil	The Oni editor
Mark Mooney	Who?
Kathy Monje	Dirt Shoe reviews
Mark Stewart	JFK's illegitimate ldd
Carolyn Beaver	Bureaucrat editor
Erich Boekelheide	Good in darkroom
Jim Payne	Little known artist
Eric Maloney	Loeb Fan Club
Melody Ward	Late
Carl Bryant	Capitalist
Bill Lutz	Male model
Steve Dodge	Beer Garden correspondent
Greg Wasson	Clone
Mike Lee	Wall ornament
Ann Treneman	With it
Becky Young	Short
Kevin Hackett	UPI
Dina Miles	Dinah Shore's sis