

hear and now

Arts and Entertainment

Thursday, April 20, 1978

Unknown magazine still makes waves

People continually puzzle over why a national magazine like Northwest Review remains anonymous in its own home town. But lack of recognition has not stopped the literary publication from winning awards, publishing top-flight authors, and maintaining its high quality. For a story on the Review, and other literary magazines in the Eugene area, please turn to Page 4B.