

Advisers query students

Oregon high school and community college counselors will be interviewing former students today in the EMU Ballroom and surrounding area, beginning at 1:15 p.m.

Students who received invitations are asked to meet with the counselors at specified times.

The purpose of the conference for representatives from 57 high schools and nine community colleges is to examine the movement from high schools or community colleges to universities and to learn techniques to smooth out administrations and curriculums.

Minority talk set tonight

"Invisible Peoples," a series of forums on minorities in the Northwest, will focus on the "non-traditional" minority — the Scandinavians, in its fifth program, 7:30 p.m. tonight at the Eugene Public Library, 100 W. 13th Ave.

Virpi Zuck, who teaches in the German and Russian department at the University and who is a first-generation immigrant, will speak on "The Scandinavian Immigrant Experiences."

The programs are made possible in part by a grant from the Oregon Committee for the Humanities, an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The series is sponsored by the Ethnic Studies Program at the College of Liberal Arts.
