

American writer to talk

A novelist, satirist, literary critic and commentator of American culture will lecture on "One Time a Great Nation: The Lewis and Clark Expedition as Enlightenment Epic," at 8 tonight in the EMU, room to be posted.

John Seelye has written several books, such as "Melville: The Irony Diagram," "The True Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," "The Kid," "Mark Twain and the Movies" and "Prophetic Waters: The River in Early American Culture."

The visit is sponsored by the English department.

Gov. candidate scheduled

Bud Kretsinger, Republican candidate for governor, will appear in an open forum Friday at 11:30 a.m. in the EMU, room to be posted.

The ASUD will sponsor Kretsinger's appearance as part of its series of candidates' forums this spring.

Kretsinger, a political unknown from Manzanita, was originally scheduled to appear at the University in an open forum of all Republican gubernatorial candidates. Major candidates Victor Atiyeh, Roger Martin and Tom McCall instead chose to appear in a series of joint debates throughout Oregon.

A question-and-answer session will follow a speech by Kretsinger.

Study needs couples

A study designed to measure the gray area of communication effectiveness among married couples is beginning at the Marital Studies Program.

Couples who have been living together for at least two years and have children living at home are encouraged to participate in the study by completing a questionnaire at the program office on campus. Each couple will be paid $7. Questions cover all areas of marital communication.

Interested couples can contact Terri Chamberlin weekdays at 686-5531 or 345-3980, evenings.

'Show and tell' features fun

Displaced Homemakers/Widowed Services will sponsor a number of speakers at a Friday noon "Show and Tell" at 1553 Agate St.

The speakers will explore leisure-type activities for play or fun. Displaced homemakers, widows and all interested persons are encouraged to attend the session.

The services are part of the Center of Gerontology, which has sponsored programs for 35 years.

Holocaust Day commemorated

Holocaust Day will be commemorated today with photo exhibits, films from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and an information table in the EMU lobby.

A candle light memorial service for the victims of the Holocaust will be held tonight at 8 on the Susan Campbell Hall lawn.

Architecture speech slated

University Architect Robert Ferrens will speak on "Los Angeles, Los Angeles" at 4:30 p.m. Friday in Room 177, Lawrence Hall.

His talk is part of the School of Architecture and Allied Arts spring lecture series. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

Musicians hold final meeting

The University Chapter of Music Educators National Conference (MENC) will hold its final monthly meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Room 202 of the music school.

The agenda will include reports and discussion of future directions in music education by people who recently attended the MENC Convention in Chicago.

Kathy Griffin will open the meeting with a piano performance of Mozart's Piano Sonata in F Major K332.
