

Biology courses offered

The University's Institute of Marine Biology, in Charleston, is offering eight-week courses this summer in invertebrate zoology, physiology, coastal biology, biology of fishes, marine birds and mammals and biological illustration.

Individual research projects and seminars are also offered.

Classes will start June 19 and run until Aug. 12. They will be taught by regular University faculty members and by visiting professors from other universities.

Formal admission is not required. All students will pay resident tuition rates of $246.50 for full-time undergraduate students and $388.50 for full-time graduate students.

The Institute buildings provide dormitories, a dining hall, classrooms and laboratories. Persons interested in attending may call (503) 888-5534 or write: Director, Oregon Institute of Marine Biology, Charleston, Ore. 97420.

Bikeathon slated for Sat.

The eighth annual American Cancer Society Bikeathon will take place Saturday beginning at Alton Baker Park, starting at 9 a.m.

Bob McDonald, chairer of the event, says the course has been shortened to 40 miles this year to attract more riders.

"We raised $10,000 last year, and with the help of Lane County citizens we can contribute even more towards the millions needed for cancer research," he says.

The course will go from Alton Baker Park, through Springfield, out the Mohawk Valley, across the scenic McKenzie View Drive to Armitage Park, south to the bike path and back to the park.

Fruits and drinks will be provided throughout the course and the Red Cross will provide a mobile medical aid trailer. Also providing support the day of the ride will be the Amateur Radio Operators of Eugene, the University ROTC and the Lane County Sheriff's Department.

Blanks are available at the American Cancer Society office at 1892 Willamette St. or call 484-2211.

Theater applications open

Applications are being accepted for members of the company of Carnival Theater, the University's annual outdoor summer theater.

Carnival offers its company members extensive experience in all phases of production and performance. During the two-month season a member could expect to work on stage, backstage and in management. Company members will be considered for major roles.

Although company members will receive no stipend or salary, they may earn up to 15 credits in theatre if they are registered for summer session.

The 1978 carnival includes a variety of five plays for adults and two special shows for children. Auditions for the five which have not been cast already will be held June 18.

Persons who wish to join the company must be willing to work in all phases of Carnival Theater and must be available from 1 to 11 p.m. daily.

Further information may be obtained from Marya Bednerik, theater director at the University, 686-4177.

The benefit Saturday will be his only performance open to the general public. Donations will be accepted.

University grad wins internship

A University graduate student has won one of two year-long internships annually by the AFL-CIO in a national competition.

Brad Witt, who will receive a M.S. degree in industrial relations at the University in June, will intern in the research department of the AFL-CIO in Washington, D.C. beginning in July.

Witt is from Barre, Mass.

State grants to be given

Oregon resident students who think they might qualify for a state need grant are encouraged to apply now for the coming academic year. Qualified students may be eligible for up to $540 per year in public four-year schools.

The need grant program, administered by the Oregon State Scholarship Commission (OSSC), underwent expansion during the last legislative session. As a result, students from middle income families may now be eligible. OSSC can now make grants to students whose family income is up to $17,000, assuming an average family of two parents and two children. Previously, grants were only made to students whose family income was $12,000 or less. Grants may be awarded to families whose family size is larger than four or when other unusual family circumstances exist.

In addition to expanding the program to include middle income families, the Legislature approved a special appropriation to offset anticipated tuition increases in 1978-79. This allows OSSC to offer grants to students from typical families-of-four with incomes between $17,000 and $20,000. These grants are $100 annually and are only available to students attending institutions under the State Board of Higher Education.

Students who think they may qualify for a state need grant need to complete a "Financial Aid Form". These forms and application instructions are available through the financial aid office in Oregon Hall.

Birth control lecture set

Natural Family Planning will show a free movie on "Introduction to Natural Family Planning" and display material on the Billings ovulation method and sympto-thermal methods of birth control Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Eugene Hospital and Clinic, 12th Avenue and Olive Street.

Registration for Natural Family Planning classes will also be held. Classes are held May 21, June 18 and July 16 at 2 p.m. The cost is $15 for classes. Class size is limited.

Instructors will be John and Jeanne Owens, experienced planning teachers from Portland, and Dave and Tary Tobin, Eugene's Natural Family Planning teachers.
