

Editorial writer to speak

An editorial writer for the Milwaukee Journal will highlight the third annual Ruhl Symposium on Journalistic Ethics and Press Performance at the University Monday.

David Behrendt will present the Ruhl lecture, "Creeping Incredibility, A Press Epidemic," at 8 p.m. at the EMU Ballroom. The lecture is free and the public is invited.

As Ruhl visiting professor of journalism at the University during spring term, Behrendt is teaching a course in editorial writing and a course in public affairs reporting.

He has received awards for distinguished public affairs reporting from the American Political Science Association and the Milwaukee Press Club, and has been honored by the National Council for the Advancement of Education Writing. He has twice won the Milwaukee Press Club's award for the best editorial of the year.

The Ruhl Symposium is made possible by an endowment to the School of Journalism from Mable Ruhl, widow of Robert Ruhl, long-time editor and publisher of the Medford Mail-Tribune.

Summer survival offered

If you're 10 miles up a trail and your best friend collapses from sunstroke or twists his ankle, do you know what to do?

A program at Sacred Heart Hospital called "How to Survive Your Summer Vacation," will teach prevention, immediate treatment, follow-up care and possible complications of summer-related accidents tonight from 7:30 to 9 in the hospital auditorium.

Speakers will include dermatologist Robert Bushman, emergency physician Larry Dunlap and anesthesiologist Milford Freeman. They will cover a variety of topics from bee stings and sunburn, to fractures, rabies and drowning. Freeman will demonstrate how to clear airway obstructions and how to use cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR).

The program is free and open to the public. Free parking will be available tonight only at the west end of the large employee lot at 12th Avenue and Patterson Street.

Panelists talk gay rights

The University YWCA and the ASUO will sponsor a free panel discussion on "Gay Rights and Measure 51" Tuesday at noon in the EMU, room to be posted. Representatives of the Eugene Citizens for Human Rights will present information about the upcoming referendum in Eugene.

Concert cancels

The University Chamber Choir scheduled for tonight at 8 at Beall Concert Hall has been cancelled. It will be rescheduled at a later time.

Students victims of towing

Eugene Police Department and numerous Eugene towing companies removed an estimated 35 cars from 15th Avenue near the University Sunday morning.

The vehicles, most of which belonged to students living in the dormitories, were removed so a house could be moved down the street. Street signs were posted 24 hours previous to moving.

Owners of the cars face towing charges from $17 to $35 before they can get their cars back. In addition, all the cars received $5 parking tickets.

Several irate students are organizing to see if any action can be taken. For more information, call 686-6555 or 686-6638.

First aid course offered

The American National Red Cross of Lane County is sponsoring multi-media standard first aid classes and review classes Monday through Wednesday at the Lane County Fairgrounds.

"The multi-media system of instruction uses workbooks and films to teach basic first aid practices," Barbara Young, Red Cross director of safety programs, says.

Participants will learn general knowledge first aid skills such as how to care for cuts, burns and broken bones. They will also learn splinting and bandaging skills.

Instruction is free, however, newcomers must pay a $6 fee for books and supplies. People who already have the books must pay $1.20 for supplies.

Students who complete the class will receive a card and standard first aider status for a three-year period, Young says. Card holders wishing to renew their certification may take the 4-hour review course, she adds.

Demonstration scheduled at 12

Persons interested in joining a Navy Demonstration with the Eugene Citizens against Trident should meet today at noon at the Navy Recruiting Center, 1111 Wilamette St.

The demonstration will be an effort to call attention to the Navy's role in producing offensive military weaponry, specifically the Trident nuclear submarines.

Further information can be obtained by calling 687-2557.

MISCELLANEOUS

Judy MacLean, a feminist and socialist writer, will lecture Tuesday on "Feminism, Socialism and Democracy," at 1 p.m. in Lane Community College's Board Room and again at 3:30 p.m. in the EMU, room to be posted.

MacLean, a long-time feminist and energy activist, has been a central figure in the New American Movement (NAM), since 1972 an organization of democratic socialists. Last year she was a reporter for the socialist weekly "In These Times" and this year is serving as national organization chair of NAM.

Her visit to Eugene is sponsored by the Wilamette Valley Chapter of the New American Movement. The talks are free and open to the public.

Two films about the effect of alcohol and others drugs on the unborn child will be featured at the next Community Alcohol Education Program 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Central Presbyterian Church.

The program is designed for the general public by the Lane County Council on Alcoholism, and anyone interested is invited to attend.

Persons interested in lobbyist position with the Oregon Student Lobby as advertised in the ODE classifieds, may pick up a job description at ASUO, Suite 4, EMU.

Opening up... a show of sculptures and drawings by Marya Axner opens at the Northside Gallery tonight from 7-9. The show runs through May 24. The Northside Gallery is located across Franklin Boulevard, parallel to the bike path. Hours are Monday through Friday 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.
