

Hayden turns on to energy

The EMU Cultural Forum will present Tom Hayden for a lecture in the EMU Ballroom Wednesday at 8 P.m.

Hayden was the first president of the SDS (Students for a Democratic Society), and was actively involved in the anti-war movement of the 60's. In 1970, he was one of the Chicago 7 convicted for conspiracy to demonstrate in Chicago during the 1968 convention. He then moved to Berkeley and removed himself from national politics.

Currently, Hayden is administrator for an organization founded by himself and his wife, Jane Fonda, known as the Campaign for Economic Democracy (CED). The CED is heavily involved in a campaign for solar energy. Hayden has worked on a plan known as Solar Cal. Solar Cal's plan is to create a publicly controlled solar-energy industry in California, that would also generate new jobs.

Hayden's CED also lobbies in Sacramento for greater public involvement in corporate policy, low-income housing, and a variety of other programs, while working for a pervasive grass-roots organization. The event is free and open to the public.
