THEATRE

"The Robber Bridegroom" $4. 8:30 p.m. Carnival Theatre. Written by Alfred Uhry, based upon a novella by Eudora Welty, and composed by Robert Waldman, "Robber" is a musical folk tale set in Mississippi, 1880, but strongly derived from European folk tales (Grimm and Anderson). It is very simply told in story theater fashion: actors narrate as well as perform the actions, and they serve as many characters, forces of nature, birds, animals, props and sets. Reservations: 686-4191.

"The Crunch" $3. 11 p.m. Pocket Theatre, Villard Hall. Controversial one-man play by Marcus Campbell. World premiere.

"Voices" $2.50. 8:30 p.m. Maude Kerns Art Center. Written by Susan Griffin, the one-act play shows five women of different generations and circumstances who seem to be conducting five monologues: each tells her story, as if to herself. Directed by Margie Peterson as a Master's thesis project.

"Last of the Red Hot Lovers" $3.50. 8 p.m. Oregon Repertory Theatre, Atrium. This Neil Simon comedy deals with a middle-aged restaurant owner's attempts to have a last amorous fling and join the sexual revolution before it's too late. The thwarted liaisons take place in the old-fashioned apartment of Barney Cashman's mother. Directed by Bill Ritchie. Reservations: 485-1946.

Friday
