

Getting around town with LTD

Bus service connects city for 35 cents

Getting from the campus to places inside the Eugene city limits used to be a problem. But not since the Lane Transit District opened for business several years ago.

For students who either don't have transportation or are energy conscious, the LTD bus service offers rides from campus to downtown, the Lane Community College campus, downtown Springfield and a number of other locations inside Lane County. For 35 cents, students can have a ride to nearly anyplace they wish.

The LTD bus service that students would most use involves four or five routes that cross from campus to downtown and to student housing units.

Those routes, Bailey Hill — Willamette Street, LCC via Harris Street, Harlow Road — LCC and Westmoreland, cover an area from the campus to East Springfield and West Eugene.

For students living in the Westmoreland Married Student Housing complex, the LTD route from the campus along 11th Avenue to Garfield Street will come close to the unit. The Westmoreland route, however, is specially designed to go directly to the complex from the downtown Eugene LTD station.

That route has buses arriving and departing from the campus and the apartment complex nearly every half-hour.

For students who may also take courses at Lane Community College as well as the University, the LCC via Harris street route has a bus leaving the corner of 13th avenue and Kincaid street every half-hour. Those buses go from campus to LCC, then to downtown transfer station and back to campus.

Students who live in the Ashlane student complex in Springfield also have a route that takes them from that complex to the LCC campus and then to the downtown transfer station.

For other routes and more information on Sunday and Holiday service, the LTD downtown transfer station at 10th Avenue and Oak Street is the place to go. Route pamphlets are also available at the ASUO office, Suite 4, in the ground floor of the EMU.
