The U.S. Small Business Administration Service Corps of Retired Executives, and Eugene Chamber of Commerce are co-sponsoring a one-day workshop on starting a small business.

Titled, "Starting Your Own Business," the workshop will be offered on Tuesday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Collinade Room of the Eugene Hotel.

The session is designed to help those who are thinking of starting a small business to plan their enterprises more effectively. Speakers include a banker, CPA and an attorney. Films will be shown and free management aids distributed.

The cost of the workshop is $1.00. For information and registration contact the Eugene Chamber of Commerce at 484-1314.

Health workshop set

The University Displaced Homemakers-Widowed Services program will host a "health maintenance" workshop Tuesday to probe the dangers of alcohol and prescription drugs, and the need for good nutrition.

The workshop is held quarterly as part of the program's outreach to displaced homemakers, says staff member Jim Camp. Displaced Homemakers-Widowed Services also offers periodic workshops in health, legal problems and personal financial management.

The widowed services portion of the program has existed since 1975.

The program was established to determine the needs of displaced homemakers, whose problems were going unsolved under existing services, he says.

Displaced homemakers or widows in need of counseling, or persons seeking more information about the workshop, can call 686-4220 for details.
