

daily emerald Election 1978

The various 1978 campaigns have reached a rather feverish pitch in the final days before voters travel to the polls. Some issues and races have attracted a lot of attention this year — such as the death penalty, the Lausmann/Weaver race for 4th District Congressman, and, of course, the two property tax relief measures.

But often the issues that receive little attention can affect Oregonians as much as the ones that have hogged the attention. This year, as during every election, the Emerald staff has put together a supplement — which provides information on small and large issues and races.

In addition the Emerald conducted a poll to calculate how University students stand on various issues. The poll results are on page 16B.

The election supplement is designed to assist voters in knowing and understanding the wide-reaching range of issues and candidates.

Polls will be open 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday.
