Iranian turmoil accelerates

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Prime Minister Jaafar Sharif-Emami submitted his resignation to Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi Sunday night, authoritative sources said, as mobs shouting "Death to the shah!" rampaged through Tehran.

The sources said Sharif-Emami resigned during a meeting with the shah but it was unknown if the shah had accepted the resignation.

Hundreds of tanks and armored personnel carriers rolled into Tehran as rioters stormed through the capital's streets virtually unchecked.

About 500 demonstrators forced open the gate to the British Embassy and burned down the four-story main building in the downtown complex. The U.S. and Iraqi embassies in the northern part of the city also were threatened, but rioters were driven back by soldiers and tanks.

Sharif-Emami, 69, had been appointed prime minister by the shah on Aug. 27 in an effort to stem Moslem opposition to the government.

Unofficial reports said former Prime Minister Ali Amini appeared to be the most likely successor. But there were rumors that the shah might seek a military solution to the months of bloody street fighting by naming a general to form a government.

In another political blow to the shah, the ministers of education and higher education resigned in protest of the army's bloody suppression of a student demonstration in Tehran Saturday.

The dissidents are generally orthodox Moslems opposed to the shah's Westernizing of this traditional Islamic nation, but many also seek democratic reforms in the government, freedom for political prisoners and an end to martial law. The government has promised to free most political prisoners next month and has agreed to other reforms. The violence began in January and has taken 1,000 lives.

Efforts toward a political solution of the Iranian crisis appeared to have faltered as the National Front, the opposition coalition, announced it had united with holy man Ayatollah Khomeini, exiled leader of Iran's predominant Shiite Moslem sect.

In Paris, Khomeini said the "geopolitical situation of Iran is favorable for the departure of the shah" and urged unity among foes of the monarch.

Peace mission attempts to halt Uganda border war

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Three envoys arrived in Uganda Sunday to meet with President Idi Amin, spearheading an African diplomatic effort to end the border war between Uganda and Tanzania.

The secretary-general of the British Commonwealth, Sir Shridath Ramphal, appealed to Uganda, meanwhile, to withdraw its troops from Tanzanian territory "in the interests of peace and stability."

Ramphal, who is from Guyana, issued the appeal from London after returning from talks with Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda in Lusaka and President Julius Nyerere in Tanzania.

There were no fresh reports of fighting from the battle zone.

Amin announced last week that Uganda had annexed 710 square miles of Tanzanian territory north of the Kagera River, claiming the move was in response to an earlier Tanzanian invasion of Uganda. Tanzanian officials denied invading Uganda.

It had been reported Saturday that Tanzanian mortars positioned in the town of Kyaka on the Kagera River hit Ugandan positions on the northern side of the river and destroyed two Ugandan tanks.
