

Laser study wins grant peanuts

University chemist Paul Engelking is directing a new laser study which has been awarded a $16,000 grant from the Research Corporation of New York City.

The specific aim of the project, Engelking says, is to use a laser beam in his campus laboratory or conduct spectroscopic analyses of burning gases.

However, a long range project goal is to help perfect a technique for using lasers to diagnose a wide range of combustion-type reactions, he says.

The Research Corporation grant was funded through a donation from the M. J. Murdock Charitable Trust of Vancouver, Wash. The trust is named for the founder of Tektronix, Inc., a Beaverton electronics firm.

Study space offered

Straub Hall will be open for studying each weekday evening through final examination week. Located adjacent to the Erb Memorial Union, Straub will be open from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. Straub is fully accessible to the physically handicapped.

In addition, the Newman Center at 1850 Emerald St., will be open for studying from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Sundays, Nov. 27 through Dec. 10.

Corrections, amplifications

Prof. Jane Gray does not teach in the geology department as was written in a caption included in Friday's "Women in the Sciences" story. Gray holds a courtesy appointment in the geology department. There are no women faculty members in geology.

Yoga retreat scheduled

A Kundalini yoga retreat will be held this weekend at Brightenbush Hot Springs, Oregon.

"It's going to be an invigorating, relaxing experience," says retreat spokesperson Sat Kirpal. "It'll be cozy and fun."

The retreat will involve diet, health and nutrition, and the "technology" of Kundalini yoga. An Olympic-size, naturally heated outdoor pool will be available, Kirpal says.

Kundalini yoga is designed to energize the body, particularly the nervous and gland systems, and to give control over the mind, according to Kirpal.

Participants are asked to bring a sleeping bag, warm clothes, swimsuit, mat and notebook. The retreat runs from 10 a.m. Saturday through 5 p.m. Sunday.

Registration costs are $35 for individuals and $60 for married couples to cover expenses, including meals. To register, phone 686-0432.

 The cards will be sent to Pres. Carter and Oregon senators and representatives.

POLICY
 The Emerald's briefs column is open to anyone wishing to announce meetings, lectures or miscellaneous events. Briefs are run only once and are subject to space limitations. They should be typed and triple-spaced in a 65-character margin. Include all pertinent information, including the date you want it to run. Also, include a name and phone number in case we have questions. Events with donations or admission charges will not be accepted.
 All items must be turned in by 2 p.m. the day before publication at the Emerald office, Room 300, EMU.

VOLUNTEERS
 The following volunteer positions are open this week. For more information call the Voluntary Action Center at 342-4451.
 A volunteer is needed to run audio visual equipment for three-hour shifts.
 A retired bookkeeper is needed by a non-profit magazine to make deposits, write checks, post once per week and do some "at home" bookkeeping.
 A sales person is needed to help operate a greeting card and poster shop. The volunteer will work two-hour shifts Monday or Friday mornings.
 A current events discussion leader is needed for a group of care center residents. The volunteer will choose the topics.
 Paper correctors, typists and newsletter editors are needed for various agencies. Some work can be done at home.
