Health expert offers runners free analysis

A free health hazard analysis will be offered to non-runners more than 25 years old who participate in a study designed by graduate student Cindy Paxton.

The analysis takes into consideration activities such as smoking, drinking and exercise before determining the "age" of a person according to a health formula based on a national average.

Paxton, a student in the department of health and physical education, will hold a meeting for interested persons Saturday from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. in Room 155, Straub Hall. Those who are unable to attend should call her at 686-4132.

Soprano plans Bach concert

Soprano Susan St. John will sing arias from Bach's St. Matthew's Passion Sunday at 8 p.m. in the University's Beall Hall.

She will be accompanied by an ensemble of School of Music students including Ruth Chapman, piano; Les Martin, harpsichord; Pamela Birrell, flute; Rachel Aldrich, oboe; Sylvia Spangler, cello, and Karen Strand, oboe d'amore and English horn.

Portland protest planned

A support demonstration for the Moody Park Three will take place in Portland's Alberta Park at noon Saturday. The protest is scheduled to coincide with a Houston demonstration against the May arrests of three members of People United, a Chicano movement.

Persons needing rides to Portland can contact John Kaiser at 689-7062 or Jonathon Draper at 343-5806. The Eugene group will leave from the EMU Terrace at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Composer plans workshop

The First Christian Church of Eugene will host noted composer and publisher David Yantis, in four music workshops, culminating in a "celebration concert" Sunday at 3 p.m. in the church sanctuary.

Yantis, who pioneered much of the contemporary church music and creative worship during the 1960s, will conduct a guitar/instrumental workshop Jan. 26 from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m., followed by an adult choral workshop from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. that same evening.

On Jan. 27 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., Yantis will introduce a new concept in children's music, combining music and hand poetry.

Free choral music and refreshments will be provided at all workshops to those participating. For additional information contact Dean McIntyre, minister of music at the church office, 344-1425.
