

Local poet to read work

John Witte, a University graduate, will give a reading of some of his works today in 146 Straub Hall.

Witte will read from his first book, "Loving the Days," published last year as part of the Wesleyan poetry series. He also will read from more recent works. The reading will begin at 8 p.m.

Witte, influenced by poets James Wright, Robert Lowell and Gerald Stern, writes optimistically about life.

Witte's reading is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by the University's Master of Fine Arts program.

Photos needed of outdoors

Photographic prints of the outdoors will be collected from Sunday through March 16 for a photo exhibit sponsored by the Outdoor Program.

The show is titled "Open Air Images" and will take place during spring registration. Everyone is welcome to submit either black and white or color prints dealing with non-competitive, outdoor activities.

A picture mounting session will be offered Feb. 28. Those who are interested should contact Rick Sahley or Helen Faller at 686-4365.

Speech meet to continue this weekend

About 800 students from 60 Oregon and Washington high schools will visit the University for the Bower Aly Memorial Forensics Tournament today, Friday and Saturday.

High school students will compete in both debate and individual speech events.

The competition is sponsored by the University forensics team.

Businesswoman to talk

Eugene businesswoman Edith Maddron, a member of the Oregon Educational Coordinating Commission, will be the featured speaker at the University's winter term commencement ceremonies Friday.

About 730 winter degree candidates will be eligible for the ceremonies, to be held at 7:30 p.m. in McArthur Court.

Maddron is one of the seven original members of the ECC, a state commission with the responsibility of planning, coordinating and evaluating Oregon's educational offerings from kindergarten through college.

Among the University's 730 winter term degree candidates are 502 candidates for bachelor's degrees, 188 candidates for master's degrees, 38 doctoral degree candidates and 2 candidates for law degrees.

Music teachers sought

Applications are being accepted for instructors for the Eugene Parks and Recreation Department's Summer Music Education Program.

Possible class offerings include beginning and intermediate strings, recorder, woodwind, band percussion, stage band and youth orchestra.

Applications are available from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at 858 Pearl St., fourth floor, and must be returned by March 19. For more information call Vivienne Friendly at 687-5353.
