Yoyo, Janet Piggleson and Rocky Racoco. Another IFC feud is set for sometime this weekend.

The Incidental Fee Committee allocated $50,763.11 to the Interfraternity Council in its budget hearing Thursday night.

Dusty Dodes, IFC member, praised the program for its "extremely padded budget. It's great to see a program try to screw us over. By the way, I saw a great movie on TV last night starring John Wayne."

Kevin Changehers, IFC member, said, "I have no problem with this budget."

"We bring rich, white males with fast cars to campus," said Greg Great, president of the council. "We never pidge freaks with zits, fat, or kinky hair. They just don't fit into our style."

The Asian American Student Union recieved $1.01 of their request for $5,000 for cultural activities after extensive debate on whether the IFC should fund cultural events.

"We're not restricting your activities," explained Jammit Piggleson, IFC chairer. "You can use the money for any cultural events you want. It's up to you."

The IFC also denied funding for YWCA's volunteer programs.

The budget hearing for the EMU administration was rescheduled for next week after Dodes accused EMU director, Adell McVillain of using a $50 entertainment fund to hide contributions to a Communist group plotting to overthrow the IFC.

The meeting was temporarily disrupted when a fist fight broke out between Dodes and Piggleson.

Piggleson said she is tired of Dodes' nitpicking. "You make me sick Rusty. I hope you rot in heck."

The rest of the meeting was postponed after IFC members Scarry Slicks and Rocky Shitz left to attend a toga party at their fraternity, leaving the committee without a quorum.

Study useless, sez prez

University Pres. Nullon Void today finally conceded that a college education is absolutely useless.

The startling admission came at a Eugene chapter meeting of the National Organization of Old Ladies Who Like to Bitterly Complain when Ms. Lily P. Snip told the president of the University, "My son attended the University and majored in Medieval English. Now all he's good for is drinking at the local bar and singing bawdy pre-Elizabethan ballads. I hold you responsible for this!"

President Void said he understood Snip's dilemma.

"Just last month," said the president, "I was speaking before a chapter of Men Who

Like to Sit Around Discussing their Banal War Experiences, and a man griped that his college-junior daughter talked all day about Sylvia Plath and kept threatening to put her head in their gas oven, but wouldn't even heat up a Swanson's Hearty Eskimo Dinner for him because of her philosophical qualms.

Women veiled; Iranians held

Two University Iranian students were arrested and charged with veiling women in Valley Creek Center Saturday afternoon.

Eugene police said the two, Ihatolhya Sowabowdit of 143 Bakhtiar Drive and lam Deef Twodashar of 517 Commingle Circle, were subdued by officers while attempting to force a struggling young woman, Twinky Sweetums of 319 E. Southeast Ave., to don a chauldor — the traditional robe worn by Iranian women.

Out on bail, the two students readily admitted to perpetrating numerous hit-and-run veilings.

"We want to bring the Iranian revolution to America," proclaimed Sowabowdit.

"We were tired of seeing American women walk about almost naked," said Twodshar.

"We were tired of staring at taut bare legs, high pert rumps, round and firm breasts, and all the rest of it. We were tired of being tempted."

Sowabowdit said the American people could learn a lot from the Iranian revolution.

He said there would be fewer muggings and pockets picked if Islamic justice were meted out here.

"It's hard to pick a pocket if you don't have the hand for the job," said Twodashar, "and hard to mug if you have to have the gun in your teeth — muggers have both hands cut off in my country. Have you ever tried to pull a trigger with your tongue?"

But both said they are really more concerned with everyday behavior and morals. They contend the West is decadent.

"We don't care about your fast cars, your Cokes and your burgers," said Twodashar.

"We hate color television and football. We would rather eat brown rice and gruel and pray all day, but as foreign students, we sacrifice in order to get along with our fellow students."

Sowadabowdit said he has watched innumerable televised NFL games — "the Rams, I especially detested watching the Rams. How could they lose that last playoff?" — in the EMU, and eaten innumerable burgers and tons of fries "just to be friendly."

"But we are through with compromising our integrity," he said.

Sowadabowdit said that even now Iranian students are planning picket lines for theatres showing such "decadent" films as "Ice Castles" and "Bedknobs and Broomsticks" and sit-down demonstrations in bars to protest the consumption of liquor and beer.

"My dream was to watch my best friend blow his brains out playing Russian roulette. The Army gave me the opportunity."
