

Strong quake shakes U.S.-Mexico border

CALEXICO, Calif. — A powerful earthquake struck Southern California and part of Mexico on Monday, buckling buildings, wrecking water systems and swaying skyscrapers as far away as Las Vegas and Los Angeles. At least 76 persons were injured, authorities said.

One death was reported in Mexicali, Mexico, but there were no immediate reports of deaths in California. The five-second earthquake was the strongest in the Imperial Valley since 1940, the U.S. Geological Survey said.

"There was window glass all over the streets. Mannequins were piled up in the (store) windows and chimneys were down," said Dorothy Shook, 55, a store owner in El Centro, one of the hardest hit communities.

Seismologists at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena said the 4:16 p.m. temblor, measuring 6.4 on the Richter scale and centered 10 miles east of here on the Mexican border, was followed by a series of aftershocks measuring more than 3.0 on the Richter scale. The National Earthquake Center in Golden, Colo., measured the major quake at 6.5.

Everett Blizzard, deputy director of the state Office of Emergency Services in Sacramento, said there was "major damage" to the All-American Canal. The canal is a major supplier of water for the region's crops.

The Imperial County Fire Department declared a countywide state of emergency. At least 20 rural bridges were reported wrecked in the valley, and the roofs of many houses collapsed.

About 200 people were evacuated from the Imperial County Services Building in El Centro — an 8-year-old structure that was supposedly earthquake proof — after the building dropped 1½ feet and listed 3 feet to one side. Nearly all the windows on one side of the five-story structure were broken.

The tremors were felt as far north as Los Angeles, 150 miles from the epicenter, and in the high-rise hotels on the Las Vegas Strip.

A small landslide was reported in Balboa Park in San Diego, said Otto Boss, an aide to San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson. "Our building, I thought was going about one foot either way. I guess it was something like being on a rollercoaster," he added.

The great quake of San Francisco has been estimated at 8.3 on the Richter scale.
