Weyerhaeuser exec plans visit at University business school

The president and chief executive officer of Weyerhaeuser Co., George Weyerhaeuser, will be executive in residence at the business school, Feb. 19-20.

During the visit, he will participate in several courses ranging from international business to corporation strategy and planning to business organization and management.

"We are very pleased that Weyerhaeuser has made time in his busy schedule to participate in this program. The timber industry is a major one in Oregon, and he will be able to make an important contribution to the educational experience of our students," says James Reinmuth, dean of the business college.

Weyerhaeuser is the company's ninth president and the sixth to carry the Weyerhaeuser name. A director of such companies as the Boeing Co. and Standard Oil of California, Weyerhaeuser provides considerable service to higher education. He serves on the advisory Board of the University of Washington School of Business, the Board of Visitors of the University of Puget Sound School of Law, the advisory councils of the Yale School of Forestry and Natural Environment and the Stanford Research Institute.
