

Phone mother for free on Saturday

On Saturday, the day before Mother's Day, you can call your mother for free from the downtown mall.

Well, there are some qualifications. The call is limited to three minutes and must be placed within the continental United States, but outside of Oregon, according to mall manager Ray McIver.

The event runs from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and is sponsored by the Eugene Downtown Association and Pacific Northwest Bell. Three phone stations will be set up under a blue-and-white striped awning at the southeast corner of the central plaza balcony.

"The Downtown Association was not financially able to do this event last year, and boy did we hear about it," McIver says.

McIver ruled out overseas calls because of their prohibitive cost — and if mom lives in Oregon, "you really should go visit her."

Remember Mom on May 11th

Make this Mother's Day one that Mom will remember - send her a Give-A-Book Certificate, redeemable in hundreds of bookstores across the nation.

It's simple. Choose one of the handsome gift cards, tell the salesperson the denomination of the gift certificate you want, and write your own special greeting in the card. Seal. Stamp. And Mail. No package to wrap. No trip to the post office. No standing in line.

It's economical. For the cost of the gift card plus the cost of the stamp, your gift is on its way! There are no service charges to you, and Mom gets the full value of the amount you paid for the certificate.

It's fast. Since your gift is traveling first-class, it will reach its destination quicker than any package sent by parcel post.
