

Iran celebrates a year of holding hostages

From Associated Press reports

Tens of thousands of Iranians rallied at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran Tuesday, marking the first anniversary of its capture with celebration, revolutionary rhetoric and flaming effigies of the man whose future was being decided by American voters.

The Iranian Foreign Ministry, meanwhile, pressed the Carter administration for a quick, public response to its conditions for release of the 52 U.S. hostages, now beginning their second year in captivity. U.S. officials have said the conditions will be studied carefully before a response is made.

The demonstrators shouted "Death to American Imperialism" and carried placards reading "Shame on Carter."

Papier-mache renderings of the U.S. president were set ablaze under sunny skies and brightly-colored banners denouncing the United States.

The demonstrators included Iranian troops and revolutionary guards, many carrying rifles with flowers protruding from the barrels, and thousands of school children, Western reporters said. Estimates of the size of the crowd ranged from tens of thousands by the reporters to hundreds of thousands by the official Iranian news agency Pars.

Speeches inside the 27-acre embassy compound were broadcast outside, and Western reporters said the rally could be heard for blocks.

Presumably, it also could be heard by some of the hostages. Iran claims it scattered them around the country following an aborted U.S. rescue attempt April 25. Recent reports, however, say most are now at the embassy.

The reporters said no one was allowed in the embassy buildings.

Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rejai said regardless of the outcome of the hostage matter the United States would remain Iran's No. 1 enemy. "The U.S. will continue its assault against us," he said.

The year of captivity was noted in the United States with subdued observances marked by patriotism and prayers. A chilly dawn rally in Hermitage, Pa., on Monday attracted about 300 people. A high school band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and 52 candles were lit.

On Tuesday, Iran's Foreign Ministry said a U.S. government note delivered by the Swiss ambassador in Tehran on Monday contained "some provisions... which are contrary" to the demands. Pars reported. Rajai, quoted by Tehran Radio, said Iran had received a message from Carter "in which he commented generally on the issue."

The Foreign Ministry said the Algerian ambassador in Washington had been asked to request the Carter-administration reply as soon as possible to Iran's official text of the conditions for the release "and they should notify the peoples of the world through the mass media of this matter." It did not elaborate. The text was received in Washington late Monday.
