Moseley clarifies costs

The tuition increases called for in Gov. Vic Atiyeh's 1981-82 budget proposal seem to be causing confusion for some students, according to Gerry Moseley, associate provost for student affairs.

The philosophy of the Legislature and the state Board of Higher Education has been to increase tuition rates for non-resident undergraduates to a level approximating 100 percent of the cost of instruction, he says. Now, they are considering applying the same philosophy to out-of-state graduate students as well.

Under the governor's proposal, annual tuition for resident undergraduates would rise from $693 this year to $798 in 1981-82 and $918 in 1982-83.

Not included in these figures are building, health, and incidental fees.

Resident graduate students would pay $1,338 next year and $1,539 in 1982-83, up from $1,164 this year.

Tuition for undergraduates from out-of-state, at $3,006 currently, already is at the full cost-of-instruction level. Consequently, increases for students in this category will match those for resident students.

"In other words, the proposal suggests tuition for non-resident undergraduates should go up 15 percent in 1981-82 to $3,456 and another 15 percent in 1982-83 to $3,975," Moseley says.
