

Raiders snatch second Super Bowl victory

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Oakland's well-advertised game plan to go for the big play transferred from the offense to the defense Sunday as the Raiders claimed their second Super Bowl championship.

"I told Rod Martin that if he caught more passes than me, I'd be mad, and he almost did it," said wide receiver Bob Chandler, who caught four passes, after Oakland's 27-10 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles.

Martin, an outside linebacker who plays opposite much better known teammate Ted Hendricks, set a Super Bowl record with three interceptions and called it "the greatest day of my career."

The Raiders, slight underdogs going into the game, seemed to take control the moment Martin stepped in front of tight end John Spagnola and intercepted a Ron Jaworski pass at the Oakland 47-yard line in the second minute of play.

"It might have looked easy, but believe me, it wasn't easy," said team captain Gene Upshaw. "Philadelphia is a great team, won the National Conference championship and deserved to be here."

"But we knew if we could control the line of scrimmage, we'd win. They sacked our quarterback eight times in the regular-season game, and we knew there would be no carry-over."

Oakland quarterback Jim Plunkett was sacked only once Sunday, and climaxed his return-from-obscure season with a brilliant performance, highlighted by three touchdown passes.

"The turning point of our season was when Jim took over at quarterback. He gave us leadership, just like the kind Kenny Stabler used to give us," said wide receiver Cliff Branch, who caught two of Plunkett's touchdown passes.

Philadelphia coach Dick Vermeil, who has rebuilt the Eagles in five years from a league doormat, made no excuses for his NFC champions.

"I'd say the Oakland Raiders were a better football team today," Vermeil said. "They deserve to be world champions."

Eagles star running back Wilbert Montgomery sat placidly in front of his locker, attempting to explain the Philadelphia disaster.

"All year we were a second-half ballclub. Today, it was like we gave up. It was a terrible feeling," Montgomery said.

The Raiders' second Super Bowl title came in their first season without Stabler. The veteran quarterback was traded to the Houston Oilers last year for Dan Pastorini, who broke his leg in October. The American Conference champions also were handicapped by wild-card status, which meant they had to win three postseason games before reaching the Super Bowl.

"But I knew when we made the playoffs we were as good as any of the teams and had a chance to go all the way," said Oakland coach Tom Flores.

The Raiders' biggest play of the game also was the longest in Super Bowl history, an 80-yard pass play from Plunkett to running back Kenny King that gave Oakland a 14-0 lead.

"The play wasn't designed for me to go deep. I'm supposed to go about six yards upfield and cut for the sidelines," said King. "But when I saw Jim looking upfield, I broke up the sideline. I thought (Eagles cornerback) Herman Edwards might get a hand on it, but I think he was off balance, and he couldn't."

Flores said he stressed in his pre-game talk with Plunkett, "We're not going to be conservative at all. We're going to keep going for the big plays, like we have been."

He added, "It was one of Jim's best games. I don't know about his statistics, but he came up with the right play at the right time."

Oregon gymnasts blitz fourth-ranked Canadians

Oregon gymnastics fans discovered the quality difference between America and Canada as the third-ranked Ducks thrashed the University of British Columbia 266.90 to 186.40 in a men's meet in McArthur Court Friday.

British Columbia is ranked fourth in Canada.

Kelly Crumley paced Oregon by taking the all-around competition with a 55.10 score. Crumley won the floor exercise (9.35), vault (9.55), high bar (9.35) and tied for first on the parallel bar (8.85).

Alex Schwarz added a 9.30 first on the rings, and Johny Moyal took the pommel horse with a 9.20 mark as the Ducks easily outdistanced the out-manned Canadians.

"Obviously, British Columbia is not at our level of gymnastics," said Oregon coach Bill Ballester.

The men were back in action Saturday, combining with the women's team and the National Academy of Artistic Gymnastics to entertain 3,000 fans in the "Night of Stars."

"The intention was to display gymnastics in Oregon, and I think we accomplished what we wanted to do," commented Ballester.

Oregon will be idle until Feb. 6, when they begin conference action against Stanford at McArthur Court.
