Ducks battle OSU tonight

Wrestlers prep for Civil War

Civil War will break out again tonight in McArthur Court as Oregon's wrestling team battles Oregon State University at 7:30 p.m.

The sixth-ranked Ducks are prepared to wrestle a tough match in this second of three meetings between the universities. The Ducks won the first one 22-16 in the championship match of the Oregon Invitational.

"We always get fired up when we wrestle Oregon State," says Oregon coach Ron Finley. "Both teams pride themselves on their aggressiveness and conditioning, which makes for a very exciting match."

One of the matches to watch will be the 142-pounders, with OSU's Mike Bauer who is currently ranked fourth in the nation against the Duck's Bill Nugent, Finley says.

"That should be a very tough match, with whoever makes the first mistake the loser. Both men are excellent wrestlers, ready to take advantage of any sign of weakness in the other."

The Duck's Cliff Porter will be another one to watch as he tries to avenge an earlier season loss to OSU's Cliff Berger.

"Porter was ahead 10-3 when he made a mistake and ended up on his back — pinned," Finley says. "Hopefully he will be able to change that this time."

Tonight's match has the potential of being won by either team, Finley says.

"This whole match can go either way. It's impossible to predict because there is so much pride on the line. Both teams will want to win badly."

Ryan Kelly, shown in control of an earlier match, will bring his 14-1 record to bear against Oregon State tonight.

Duck fencers duel past foes

Three members of the University fencing club duelled their way through the first round of five progressive fencing tournaments in Portland to place in their respective events Saturday.

Rosemary Daszkiewicz, a rookie fencer, surprised the veteran women with a third-place finish after going undefeated in the preliminaries.

THE REAL STORY! THE KENT STATE COVERUP

Ten years have passed since four Kent State University students were killed and nine wounded at the hands of the Ohio National Guard.

There have been other books—some good, some bad. Not one has told the complete story of both the shootings and the miscarriage of justice.

The Kent State Coverup by New York trial lawyer Joseph Kelner, chief trial counsel to the 13 victims, and writer James Munves, is the only book that really tells the complete story—with no punches pulled—of the campus massacre and the subsequent "whitewash" trial. In fact, it's the only book about the trial.

Originally published in hardcover at $15, this new $6.95 high-quality 306-page documented paperback names names and shows photographic evidence. "Will haunt our memories for a long time to come. The facts, grippingly reconstructed as in a good detective story, are unfolded before an uncaring American courtroom... the reader is caught up, involved, outraged," says New York Supreme Court Justice Edward J. Greenfield.

You too, will be outraged at this flagrant coverup. No TV show, no other book tells the complete chilling story! At your bookstore, or send check or money order today for $6.95 plus $1 postage and handling to:
