

Varsity cheerleaders have begun including more gymnastics in their routines

Rally undergoes change to professional image

Oregon's varsity cheerleading squad is undergoing an image change, says cheerleader Al Woodruff.

"We're turning rally more or less into a sport."

The cheerleaders are in the process of giving rally a professional image, Woodruff says. Besides cheering at football and men's basketball games, the group plans on "upholding the image of the University."

National competition provides one portion of the image change, says Woodruff.

Signaling the move from entertainment to sport has been the incorporation of more gymnastics and stunts in their routines, says Woodruff, who is one of 20 cheerleaders to make the All-American Collegiate Team.

A segment of the groups new image was unveiled during halftime at the UCLA game Saturday night. The cheerleaders debuted their dance team segment with a dance segment from "Chorus Line."

"Our new image is to portray a squad that excels in performance, does outstanding stunts and works well together," Woodruff says. "We know what it takes now to be a good cheerleading squad."

Wrestlers pin 16th victory

For the second night in a row, a Dan Cook pin won the match for Oregon, as the Ducks squeezed past the University of Northern Iowa 21-15 Monday night.

The Oregon heavyweight pinned John Kriebs midway through the second period, to gain the win for the sixth-ranked Ducks. Sunday, Cook scored a pin to lift Oregon over the University of Minnesota, 24-17.

"We wrestled very well tonight, with everyone really helping out," said coach Ron Finley.

"Miles Hancock got us started with a pin at 126 lbs. The lighter weights came through for us and got us going on the right track."

Cliff Porter, Bill Nugent, Jeff Steubing also won for the Ducks as they raised their season record to 16-1.

"Ryan Kelly looked very good tonight when he lost to Joe Gormally, ranked second in the nation, 5-4 in a very close match," said Finley. Kelly gave up a penalty point which cost him the match.

The Ducks face the toughest team in the nation tonight, when they meet the number one ranked Iowa State team. Four days ago, ISU shut out Minnesota, 42-0.

"We will really be fired up when we meet ISU," said Finley. "You don't need much more to get your blood going than the thought of meeting them."

"They have a ranked wrestler in just about every weight class. Jeff Steubing will put his sixth-place ranking on the line when he meets number one ranked Perry Hummel."

"We hope to give them a tough match and make them earn every point that they get. We'll have to work to get anything we can."
