LUNA
 Italy's most talented director, Bernardo Bertoucci, directed this controversial, bold drama. Jill Clayburgh gives her tour de force performance as a recently divorced widowed opera star whose career has given her precious little time for her teenage son. She takes him to Rome hoping the trip might bring them closer together, but she is unaware of his emotional turmoil. When she discovers his addiction to heroin, she dedicates herself to helping him. Through the difficult ordeal of aiding her son to find his identity, she redefines her own. LUNA address the dichotomy between career and family for successful women and the despair of a new generation of young people without focus. Some Italian sequences with subtitles.
