ON MY WAY TO MY FIRST CLASS

I bend to tie my shoelace

And I stily glance up T'ward your window glass

In hope to catch a glimpse of your face.

Oh my.

It gets harder everyday

And I remember the days when

Everything was so easy to say

But now the words get caught in my throat,

like phelgm

And my heart sings that same old tune

that's been drivin' me berzerk

Family, friends and priest try to help,

But nothin' seems to work!

I've got the "404 Hawthorne Blues" again,

Tell me, what's the best route to choose, my friend.

My thoughts get so tangled and confused,

and then

I get so scared; I know I'm gonna lose in the end

Now the days of the week are too short,

which leaves the weekend as my last resort.

But, by God, if every week it ain't the same old thing.

She's off with her ski team, and I'm left here to sing:

The old "404 Hawthorne Blues" again...

So I guess I'll just wait for spring

To make my big move on her.

And I'll save every cent for that ring

and a cardio-pulmonary resuscitator.

'Cause I know she'll break my heart.

But seriously, my little "stinker",

What I really wanted to say from the start is: "Good luck in White Pass," and kick anals spincter!
