THE SUFI CIRCLE PRESENTS

AMARCORD

Based on Fellini's recollections as a youth in a small town of pre-war Italy, this is perhaps his best loved film. The story, autobiographical in part, is of a young man who longs for the freedom of adulthood, but can't quite leave the safety of adolescence. With affection and humor, Fellini celebrates the sense of kinship that exists among the inhabitants of the town, while acknowledging its shortcomings - political naivete and narrowness - which pave the way for fascism.

Gillian
Armstrong's
MY BRILLIANT CAREER

This Australian film was one of the surprise hits of last year. It's the story of Sybylla Melvyn as an exuberant young girl growing up in the Australian outback during the turn of the century. She admits to a solid streak of egotistical independence that prevents her from engaging in the dusty struggle of becoming the wife of a dirt farmer or anyone else. She hates the thought of milking cows, raising children and giving up her dream of a career as a writer. Newcomer Judy Davis sparkles as the impulsive heroine, struggling to break tradition.

DIANE KURYS'
Peppermint
Soda

Diane Kurys' PEPPERMINT SODA is an effervescent concoction with a surprising kick to it. An unheralded first film by a young unknown director, it went on to become the biggest grossing film in France, followed by equally unexpected success in the U.S. The scrapbook-like story centers on the friends, family, school, sulks, sexual misconceptions, bad grades, adventures, and misadventures of a French schoolgirl from summer to summer in the watershed year of 1963. The originality and accuracy of Kurys' vision of adolescence immediately moved critics to place her in the company of Francois Truffaut. SUBTILES
