RA charged in fire

Police have charged the resident assistant of Spiller Dormitory with arson in connection with the fire that gutted the dorm's entrance hall two weeks ago. Bent Doll, who has unsuccessfully tried to sell the dorm, is accused with torching the building to collect insurance. "I was losing my shirt on the deal," Doll told reporters. "And besides, that creep above me never turns his stereo down." Doll will be arraigned Thursday.

From Asphyxiated Press reports

NEW YORK — Rats descended on New Jersey Tuesday, gnawing the flesh off the bones of the Garden State's residents. Federal officials responded to the pleas of New Jersey officials by laughing at them over the phone and saying that New Jerseyites deserve whatever happens to them.

WASHINGTON — The American Heritage Foundation, a prominent think-tank dedicated to "restoring America's basic values," today sent a 1,009-page summary of its recommendations to Pres. Reagan. Chief among the Foundation's recommendations is the proposal that masturbation be made a federal crime punishable by public hanging. White House and Congressional leaders promised to give "hard consideration" to the proposal.

CHICAGO — "Penthouse" publisher Bob Guccione today announced that he was reaching out to Oregon to hire the staff of the Lane County District Attorney's office as "special consultants" in the porn king's film division. The lawyers, who will attend special screenings of pornographic films, were hired "because of their massive experience with this sort of thing."

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration, in cooperation with the Justice Department, today released a report saying that former Teamsters Union president Jimmy Hoffa actually died of cancer after a lifetime of drinking coffee. FDA and Justice Department spokesmen said that the new medical evidence concerning the carcinogenic qualities of coffee "make it obvious" that reports of foul play in the disappearance of the controversial union leader were "totally erroneous."

MOSCOW — The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics Tuesday declared war on the United States. Pres. Reagan promises retaliation for the Soviet invasion of Alaska, and informed sources say a nuclear holocaust is imminent.

New comic strip debuts today

All right, you assholes, have it your way. We tried to do a poor, struggling cartoonist a favor last fall by printing his strip — but no, you called it shit and sent us petitions and threatened to inundate our offices with sparrow carcasses. Never mind that "Peanuts" is published in every other daily paper in the area, appears on television more often than Star Trek, and is emblazoned on every poster, t-shirt and coffee mug from here to eternity. So we tried again. Another poor, struggling cartoonist, another avant-garde strip. This time, not only did the Schulz fans scream at us for not bringing back Charlie Brown and Co., but latent "Sparrow" fans suddenly appeared, accusing us of choosing an even worse strip. And when we finally did bring back "Peanuts," did we get nice letters of thanks? No — everyone bitched at us for burying it in the classifieds. Give us a fucking break! We're tired of fighting with you. So we're printing everything on page two, and if you don't like it, that's your problem. After all, what are you going to do — cancel your subscription?

Spill prompts nuclear family

University of Oregon Health Sciences Center officials have hailed as miraculous today's birth of a 27-pound infant with four eyes, three arms and complete sets of both male and female genitals. The parents, both University physics graduate students, met in January while serving as lab assistants in the physics laboratory that was later the site of an unfortunate radioactive chemical spill. The birth was the first of its kind. Unlike most unusual births, however, the mother was not taking fertility drugs. The couple first copulated in early February, they told the Immorald. During their feverish activity a beaker of plutonium was inadvertently spilled. "I guess this is what happens when you get a little 'nukie,'" quipped the happy father. "Looks like we'll be the first parents on the block with a nuclear family." The mother was also in fine spirits despite having spent 11 days in labor. "I guess it was not 'too hot to trot,' huh?" she asked with a grin. Meanwhile, in what he called a "completely unrelated incident," University nuclear physicist Adam Baum said an Immorald photographer has been discovered sterile. Although the photographer toured the laboratory moments after the spill, Baum blamed the infertility on large amounts of various drugs consumed by the photographer over a long period of time and not the radiation. However, Immorald photographer Bigg Dycks said in an exclusive interview that when he returned home that evening and attempted to engage in intercourse his genitals gave off an "eerie green light." "Man, that ain't never happened before neither," he explained. "Believe me, never before. I'm not kidding. Swear to God, never, ever. Shit."

oregon daily immorald

The Oregon Daily Immorald is published annually by the Immorald Collective, a group of deranged journalism students who have forgotten everything they learned about libel laws.

Any similarity without satiric intent to a living individual is coincidental. Besides, we can't afford lawsuits — unless you want a lien on our food stamps.

This year's Immorald was coordinated by Mike Lee, whose mother is worried sick about it. Angry Young Brownie-pointers included Paul Telles and Mike Rust. As Max Rijken would say, thanks a fucking lot.
