Ducks outlast Bearcats, 6-4

A weary Oregon baseball team woke up just in time to sneak by Willamette with a 6-4 victory Tuesday at Howe Field.

"The ballgame was ho-hum," said coach Mel Krause. "The players were tired, and they played like they were tired."

The game was the fourth in five days for the Ducks, who improved their record to 9-7 with fine relief pitching and timely home runs.

The Ducks jumped out to a quick 3-0 lead after two innings behind designated hitter Randy Porter's two-run homer, but the team then seemed to fall asleep as the Bearcats rallied for three runs in the fourth to tie the game.

The score remained tied until the bottom of the sixth when Porter struck again with another homer — a long blast over the rightfield fence. Oregon then used five walks to score two more runs in the seventh for a comfortable 6-3 lead, but it took some heady relief pitching by Jim Givens to pin down the win.

Givens, the senior bullpen ace, came on in the seventh for a faltering Sam Manley and pitched a solid two and one-third innings, allowing the 'Cats one run while striking out four and baffling several hitters with his sidearm delivery. Manley picked up the decision, his second of the year without a loss.

"The last couple of times he's pitched, he's come closer to pitching the way I know he can," said Krause of Givens' performance.

Oregon will be back at Howe Field today for a 2:30 game against a young and inexperienced Concordia team. Bill Gwinn will make his first pitching appearance of the season.

Netters pinch Portland, extend win streak to eight

The Oregon men's tennis team continued to improve on its best start ever as the Ducks downed visiting University of Portland 5-4 Tuesday to improve their season mark to 10-1.

"It was just another good team effort," said Oregon coach Buzz Summers of the Ducks, who have now won their last eight matches. "We hadn't beat them the past two seasons and almost didn't this time."

Oregon's Thor Carlson slipped by Kim Gourley, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, in the top singles event to get the Ducks rolling. Each team won three singles matches.

"Thor played the best tennis for us against Portland," Summers said. "In doubles (Bill) Whistler and Thor again came through for us."

The Ducks took two of the three doubles events, including Whistler's and Carlson's 2-6, 6-0, 6-4 decision over Portland's Dave Thomas and Norm Wilsmore.

Golf squad ends tourney in third; UW claims first

Oregon's women's golf team was unable to pull off any upset at the Portland Invitational Tuesday, ending the three-day golf tournament solidly entrenched in third place.

The University of Washington, powered by five golfers who all finished below 250, scored a tournament-low 964 points, coming in almost 100 points lower than either of their league opponents.

Oregon State finished second with 1,058 points while the Ducks ended the tournament with 1,114 points.

The Husky golfers were led by medalist Sue Sanders who knocked in a 72 round Tuesday to edge teammate Nancy Peck for top honors. Sanders shot 236 for the tournament, while Peck ended with a 237.

Low scorer for the Ducks was Mary Siprell with 268 points after posting a 86 round Tuesday.

Fencers claim top places in epee

Oregon's fencing club swept the two top places in the epee competition last Saturday in the Oregon Progressive tournament.

Brian Smith went undefeated to win the tournament, while Dan Leach made his strongest showing of the season by taking second place.

In women's foil, Danan Mansfield finished third and Rosemary Daszkiewicz finished sixth.

The Oregon Division Championships, which will qualify fencers for national competition, will be held next Saturday at the University.
