

Men to squeeze by WSU

The Oregon men will have their first real test of the season while the women's squad will have a field day when the track teams tangle with Washington State Saturday in Pullman.

The victor of the men's dual depends on who you ask. Oregon coach Bill Dellinger says it will be WSU. Cougar coach John Chaplin says Oregon.

The Emerald agrees with the latter, but just barely. The final score, according to the Emerald form chart, will be 82-81.

Pivotal events will be the steeplechase and 5,000 meters, where Oregon's Mike Friton and Alberto Salazar will challenge Henry Rono, who holds the world record in both events.

However, the Kenyan saw limited action last year and is just now getting into shape. His season bests in the steeplechase and 5,000 are both almost one minute slower than his bests, which he ran in 1978.

The Oregon women, after a grueling 70-57 loss to UCLA, will breeze by the Cougars, 100-27. The score is consistent with the two other Oregon/WSU encounters (104-23 in 1977, 105-17 in 1978).

Oregon's Leann Warren, Melanie Batiste, Eryn Forbes and Grace Bakari will not compete at WSU. Warren will attend the Kansas Relays to join an 800 field that includes American record holder Madeline Manning Mims.

Rain sets aside softball team's home opener

Rain once again postponed a home opener for the Oregon softball team as Wednesday's game against Lewis & Clark College was called in the fourth inning.

The game will not be rescheduled.

The Ducks were supposed to begin their home season April 9 against Oregon State, but the wet stuff cancelled that contest.

Oregon will take its third shot at a home field advantage when they host Portland State April 20.

Tennis cutline clarification

In Wednesday's Emerald Sports Weekly a photo of Oregon singles player Lindsay Bartlett was incorrectly identified as Lynn Haecckler.

Bartlett recorded one of two Duck wins in singles competition, scoring a 7-6, 6-1 win over Oregon State's Shannon Miller. Bartlett and Susan Hunt combined for Oregon's only doubles victory against OSU.

Spurs even NBA series

HOUSTON (AP) — San Antonio forward George Gervin hit a back-breaking basket with 13 seconds to play Wednesday to clinch the Spurs' 101-96 National Basketball Association Western Conference playoff victory over the Houston Rockets.

The Spurs, facing elimination in the best-of-seven series, evened the playoffs at three games each with the decisive seventh game scheduled Friday in San Antonio.

Calvin Murphy came off the bench to score 20 points to give the Rockets a 90-87 lead with seven minutes left in the game.

Suns survive with series win

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Walter Davis scored 20 points and veteran forward Len "Truck" Robinson grabbed 20 rebounds as the Phoenix Suns fought off elimination by defeating the Kansas City Kings 101-89 in a National Basketball Association playoff game Wednesday night.
