

Freshman guards quit Ducks

Two freshman guards, Angie Snider and Diane Hiemstra who were expected to start next season for the women's basketball team, jointly announced their decision to leave Oregon Saturday.

Both cited a desire to be closer to home, along with personal reasons.

"It's disappointing to see two top players leave the program," said women's basketball coach Elwin Heiny. "But we want them to do what is best for them."

With the graduation of starting guard Allison Towriss, the two freshman were expected to be Oregon's new one-two front-line punch.

Their absence will leave a few holes, said Heiny. "Both Angie and Diane contributed a lot to our program and success this year."

"We will definitely miss them. We might have to look to Bev

(Smith) to fill in at guard next year."

Heiny, with four guards returning — Penny Geinger and Cindy Anderson are still expected to return — had only signed one guard this season, 5-9 Tracy Beckes from Mt. Vernon, Wash.

All-American forward Smith may be moved into the backcourt and incoming-freshman Chris Metzger with sophomore MaryAnn Stoican starting at the forward posts.

There are currently no plans to recruit another guard, but the possibility hasn't been ruled out, Heiny said.

Snider, a starter and the team's fourth leading scorer (11.1 points a game), cited a desire to be closer to her family — in Roeland Park, Kan. — as the major influence in her decision.

"It was really hard for me this year being so far away from my family and friends," Snider said. "I've enjoyed being at Oregon but there are places closer to home that can offer me the same opportunities."

Hiemstra, from Yankton, S.D., said her decision to leave was based on educational and personal reasons. "I decided that I want to go into engineering and they don't have the program I want here at Oregon."

Hiemstra, while not a starter, averaged 8.9 points per game as the Ducks first person off the bench during the season.

Both guards will be eligible for play immediately at another college under AIAW rules.

The AIAW allows athletes to play immediately, but does not allow them to receive any scholarships or grants-in-aid.

Both athletes will attend the Olympic tryout camp in two weeks and are expected to announce their new schools after that.

genghis khan
mongolian barbecue
"Entirely different concept in Chinese dining"

Dinner Hours:
Sunday-Thursday 5:30-9
Friday & Saturday 5:30-10

Light Dinner Specials - $5.95
Sunday through Thursday

Full Service Dining
Dinner Music Wed.-Sat., from 6:30

W. 7th & Blair Reservations 687-2130

siegmund's
Cleaners

FAST SERVICE ON ALTERATIONS

Siegmund's Cleaners
821 E. 13th 345-6321

Diamondmen drop four games

After dropping four games to the University of Washington last weekend, the Oregon baseball team firmly entrenched itself in the Northern Division cellar.

The losses give Oregon a 1-8 mark in the division, 5½ games behind the leading Huskies.

Washington, known as a powerful hitting team, used the pitching of Lance Englin to record a 6-0 win in the first game of Friday's double-header. No Oregon player was able to go further than first on his hit. Pitcher Dean Kegler (5-3) took the loss for Oregon.

The second game was slugfest, with the Ducks and Huskies deadlocked at 10 runs each after nine innings. Then, in the 11th inning, Washington's Kevin Johnson whacked a two-out, three-run homer to lift his team to a 13-10 win.

James Nutt led the Oregon attack with a pair of a two-run homers, the first in the seventh that tied the game, 8-8, the other in the ninth to give the Ducks a 10-9 lead. Bill Gwinn added two hits from five at-bats. Jim Givens, who relieved starter Mike Talia in the seventh inning, took the loss to drop his record to 3-3.

In the first game of Saturday's double-header, Oregon's pitchers allowed 14 walks that helped the Huskies to a 11-1 plastering of the Ducks. Washington connected for only eight hits, but poor pitching by the Ducks and a five-hit performance by Washington's Duane Ware were all the Huskies needed. Oregon's losing pitcher was Sam Manley (2-1).

Saturday's second game marked another five-hit show by a Husky pitcher, Ed McNamara. Washington stole 10 bases and clubbed 11 hits to win, 3-0. Oregon's Jim Hammack (0-1) took the loss.

...and to think we met through an
ODE PERSONAL

Resumes

Make a great impression with resumes copied or printed on your choice of paper at Eugene Print. We offer quick, convenient service — or a self-service copier — with finished copies that will help you put your best foot forward!

EUGENE PRINT
Two locations:
2387 West 11th, 686-9799
20 East 13th, 484-2601

FREE LECTURE

"SOVIET-U.S. RELATIONS & THE WESTERN DEMOCRACIES"

BY

LEV NAVROZOV

SOVIET DISSIDENT, AUTHOR, EMIGREE

MONDAY 101 EMU
APRIL 27 2:30 pm

SPONSORED BY:

UO RUSSIAN & EAST EUROPEAN STUDIES CENTER

Lyon's
RESTAURANTS

"I promise a good time at great prices all week."

The Manager
New

Meet our new manager. We think he has a great deal to offer. And to celebrate, we've come up with some great deals for you, all this week, Monday through next Sunday, all day long.

Jim Yanglin
Manager

Free coffee with breakfast 6 am to 11 am

Order any breakfast on our menu and we'll serve you a delicious cup of coffee, free!

Teriyaki Steak Dinner $5.99 (reg. $7.20)

A boneless ribeye steak marinated in our teriyaki sauce and grilled to your taste. Your choice of soup or salad, potato or Lyon's rice, a fresh roll and butter, dessert and a beverage. A complete, hearty dinner at an a-la-carte price.

Lyonburger, Soup or Salad $1.99 (reg. $3.05)

Our 100% beef pattie comes sizzling on a Lyon's bun piled high with shredded lettuce, tomato and thousand island dressing. As if that's not enough — you get your choice of soup or salad, too.

Free toys for the kids

As always, the Lyon's menu is a delight for kids. During this celebration, they'll have even more fun with free toys!

Offer good 4/27 through 5/3, 1981

Lyon's Restaurant • 1933 Franklin Blvd., Eugene