

Oregon baseball squad takes on Wildcats again

Oregon will face Linfield College for the second time in a month Tuesday as they host the Wildcats today at Howe Field.

The Ducks defeated the Wildcats 6-0 April 6 when Dean Kegler threw a four-hit shutout.

Dean Hummel (0-3) will pitch for Oregon in the 3 p.m. game as the Ducks try to redeem themselves from last weekend's series in Seattle.

The University of Washington took four straight from the Ducks, sweeping double-headers Friday and Saturday while showing some fine pitching to go along with a heavy hitting attack. The scores were 6-0, 13-10, 11-1 and 3-0.

"You have to give Washington credit," said Oregon coach Mel Krause. "Three of the four pitchers that threw against us pitched intelligently. It was some of the most intelligent pitching I've seen in my 11 years here, and our hitters just couldn't adjust."

The four setbacks dropped the Ducks to 13-13 on the year and a cellar-dwelling 1-8 in the Northern Division, 5½ games behind Washington.

Although Oregon's only role in conference play might be that of a spoiler, Krause hasn't thrown in the towel.

"At the beginning of the year I felt any of the four teams could win it, and I still feel we're not any less of a team than the other three. We've beaten ourselves a lot of the time.

"I feel, and I'm sure the team does too, that we'll try and win the rest of our games from now on. You just have to play on pride, if nothing else."

Oregon's remaining conference games are a four-game series at home against Washington State May 1-2 and a three-game home-and-home series with Oregon State May 8-9.

Softball squad goes to plate against OCE

After dropping five games in California, Oregon's women's softball team plans to pick things up this week as it plays five games in four days.

Today, the Ducks are scheduled to host Oregon College of Education at 3:30 p.m. today at the softball field, south of Hayward Field.

Oregon, 4-10 for the season, hopes to pick up its record a bit during the week.

Today's meeting will be the first game this season between OCE and the Ducks this season. Wednesday, the Ducks will travel to Portland for a double-header against Portland State and Friday the women will travel to Corvallis to face league foes Oregon State.

Tennis squad faces Eugene All-Star team

Weather permitting, the Oregon men's tennis team will face the Eugene All-Stars today at 2:30 p.m. at the Alder Street courts.

The All-Stars are a semi-pro group that includes top-ranked Northwest players and former members of Oregon's team.

Oregon's last match, a 9-0 shellacking of Lewis & Clark, marked the return of number-one singles player Thor Carlson after a week-long illness.
