

OSU claims tennis victory

Three doubles matches and two singles matches went to Oregon State Tuesday as the Beavers claimed a 5-4 victory over the Duck women in tennis action at Corvallis. Oregon's top seed Lindsay Bartlett opened the match up with a win over OSU's Deanne Larsell, 6-4, 6-3.

Bartlett then combined with Susie Hunt in the number-one doubles slot, but ended at the short of the score. The match proved to be the top match of the day, as Bartlett and Hunt dueled OSU's Shannon Miller and Beth Falkenberry to the wire.

The Duck duo won the first set, 5-7, then dropped the second set, 7-5.

In the third, and final set, the two doubles teams battled back and forth, but the OSU women finally claimed the 7-6 victory.

Jodie Estes defeated Jean Bauman 7-5, 6-4 in the number-four match, number-five seed Janet Fowkes defeated Beth Nibler 6-4, 6-1, and Janet Farrell defeated Penny Kingsbury 6-4, 6-0 in the number-six spot for Oregon's other wins.

The Duck women, now 9-6 for the season, will host the University of Puget Sound at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Portland State's Lomax picked 33rd in NFL draft

PORTLAND (AP) — Record-breaking quarterback Neil Lomax of Portland State admits he was disappointed Tuesday when he wasn't chosen in the first round of the National Football League draft.

The 6-foot-3, 215-pound Lomax was selected by the St. Louis Cardinals early in the second round.

He was the 33rd player chosen in the draft and was the second quarterback selected. The first, California's Rich Campbell was drafted by the Green Bay Packers and was the sixth player chosen in the first round.

Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers from South Carolina was the number-one selection, as expected. Rogers was claimed by the New Orleans Saints.

"I'm a little disappointed I didn't go in the first round,"

Lomax said. "If it's not a shock, maybe it's a surprise."

"That taught me a little lesson," he said. "Don't expect too much."

St. Louis head coach Jim Hanifan said he was extremely surprised when Lomax still was available in the second round.

"All of a sudden Neil's sitting there and we're saying, 'My Lord, we've got a chance to pick a guy who can fill our future needs,'" Hanifan said. "It's an ideal situation for him. When Neil was sitting there, it was too nice plum not to pick."

Lomax, competing in the NCAA Division 1-AA, passed for 13,220 yards in four seasons, including 106 for touchdowns. Last season he had his best statistics, completing 296 of 473 passes for 4,094 yards and 37 touchdowns. He said he was looking forward to rejoining wide receiver Dave Stief. Stief played with Lomax at Portland State and currently plays for the Cardinals.

Lomax is expected too back up 15-year veteran Jim Hart at quarterback.

"What you have in Neil Lomax is a heckuva fine athlete and a heckuva fine person," he said. "His stats speak for themselves. I saw him in the Senior Bowl. He's a young, strong kid. He's got a lot of things going for him."

Lomax admitted that not being picked in the first round will cost him money in contract negotiations.

"I'm sure it will," he said, "but that's for my attorney to decide."

In other dealings, the Seattle Seahawks, in an attempt to shore up their porous defensive unit, took UCLA defensive back Kenny Easley in the fourth selection of the first round.

Easley's crosstown foe, defensive back Ronnie Lott of USC, was a first-round selection for San Francisco.
