

Official to speak on PLO

Appearances by a Palestine Liberation Organization official on Thursday and the co-director of Clergy and Laity Concerned on Friday will highlight this year's International Week.

Sponsored by the Foreign Students' Organization, International Week also will feature an international night on Sunday.

The night's festivities will include a fashion show of traditional costumes, a banquet of foreign foods and cultural presentations including a live Korean band. The festivities will begin at 6 p.m. Admission will be $4 for students and $5 for non-students.

Hassan Abdul Rahman, Permanent Deputy Observer of the PLO at the United Nations, will speak on "The Current Palestinian Issues" in EMU Room 167 Thursday at 7 p.m.

Most Americans have heard only the "Zionist" side of the Palestinian issue, Rahman says.

The General Union of Palestinian Students and the Organization of Arab Students will co-sponsor Rahman's appearance, which will be free and open to the public.

"Southeast Asia Today" will be the topic of a speech by Don Luce, journalist and agricultural expert as well as CALC activist, in the EMU Forum Friday at 7 p.m. The speech also will be free to the public.

Luce has made several trips to Southeast Asia, the first in 1958 and the most recent this year. In 1970, he made world headlines when he, along with two American congressmen, discovered the notorious "tiger cages" in South Vietnamese prisons.

Ambulance service shuts down

Eugene and Springfield are in the ambulance business, beginning today.

The cities are handling area medical emergencies following an announcement Tuesday that the area's only private ambulance company is shutting down their emergency care and transport services.

Bill Leonard, owner of Medical Services Inc., said at a press conference Tuesday that he is fed up with the financial problems that have plagued the company for more than a year.

Leonard said MSI was scheduled to appear in bankruptcy court May 11 with a "financial rescue plan," in an attempt to deliver the company from certain failure. He said now MSI won't keep that date.

Also present at the press conference were the city managers of Eugene and Springfield, both making assurances that emergency medical aid would still be available to city residents.

Eugene city manager Mike Gleason said the city will be using its satellite fire stations to fill the gap left by MSI's withdrawal.
