

Four Duck marks fall at Cal meet

In an impressive warmup to next weekend's AIAW championships, Oregon's track team set four school records Sunday at the Pacific Coast Invitational in Berkeley, Cal.

Lexie Miller recorded two wins for Oregon in the 400- and 100-meter hurdles. Miller clocked a 58.41 in the longer race to defeat Arizona's Robin Marks, who owns the fastest U.S. time this year.

Miller's time broke her own Oregon record of 59.9 set earlier this year.

The order of finish was the same in the short hurdle race, as Miller clocked a 13.97 to Marks' 14.04. Oregon's Kris Costello was third in 14.26.

Grace Bakari won the 400 to lower her Oregon record from 53.7 to 53.3. Bakari's teammate, Lena Fritzon, had a personal best of 55.53 in that race.

In the 3,000, Lisa O'Dea finished second in an Oregon-record 9:22.4. Joan Hanson of Arizona was the winner in 9:03.5. Oregon's Eryn Forbes finished just behind O'Dea in 9:22.9.

O'Dea's time erased Molly Morton's standard of 9:25.1, set in 1979. When this season began, Morton held the Oregon record in the 3,000, 5,000 and 10,000. All three have now fallen, the other two to Forbes.

Oregon's final record-breaking performance came on the field, where Karen McDonald heaved the discus

173-8 to continue her assault on the school standard. Her old mark, set at the Northwest championships, was 170-11.

Her throw only was enough for fourth, however, as Arizona's British transplant and world leader, Meg Ritchie, threw 213-10 to win. Mariette Harriden of South Africa was third at 185-2 and Lorna Griffin of Athletics West threw 178-0 on her last attempt.

The Ducks also picked up two more qualifiers for nationals to bring their total to 11 individuals, plus the defending champion mile relay team.

Melanie Batiste won the 200 in 24.10 to nip the AIAW standard of 24.14. Batiste is slowly returning to form after suffering from hamstring problems through most of the season.

Batiste also finished second in the 100 with a 12.13 time.

Ranza Clark knocked two seconds off her season best in the 800 to finish in 2:09.03. The AIAW mark is 2:09.64.

Former Oregon athlete Patty Kearney, now competing for the Oregon Track Club, won the javelin with a 184-4 throw. Oregon's Sally Harmon was third at 162-3, behind Oregon State's Jeanne Eggart (162-9), who Harmon had beaten the weekend before at the Northwest meet.

Oregon's Leann Warren did not compete because of a slight leg muscle strain.

OSU wins two, softball season ends

Oregon's women's softball team ended its season on a losing note as it dropped two games to Oregon State Saturday, 2-1, 6-2.

Oregon State, which will be playing in the Collegiate World Series later this month, jumped to an early lead in the opener as the Beavers capitalized on Duck mistakes. Four Duck errors allowed the Beavers to score single runs in the first and second innings.

Behind the pitching of Ann Kendall, the Beavers controlled the Ducks until the sixth inning when Oregon scored its only run.

Oregon's Marcy Sowa picked up the loss despite allowing only four hits.

The second game was all Beavers as they jumped to a 4-1 lead after three innings. OSU used seven hits to bring in six runs and only committed one error. The Ducks were unable to capitalize on eight hits.

Oregon ended the season with a 9-19 record.

Soccer squad splits contests at Cal tourney

Playing its final games as a University-sponsored sport, the women's soccer team split two games at the Cal Invitational in Berkeley.

The Ducks were unable to hold off an overtime charge by Cal-Berkeley Saturday for a 1-0 loss to the Bears. Oregon bounced back Sunday in the consolation bracket to trounce Stanford University, 6-0.

Despite outshooting the Bears 35-4, the Ducks were unable to break a scoreless deadlock at the end of regulation play and two overtimes.

After each team knocked in a goal during the five-shot shootout, the Ducks missed their first attempt in sudden death while the Bear's first attempt hit the goal post and deflected the ball into the net.
