Stars to come out at Pre meet Classic studded with world-class athletes

A world-class discus field and a fine group of 5,000-meter competitors headline Saturday's Prefontaine Classic, beginning at 5:25 p.m. at Hayward Field.

The meet features a truckload of Olympic champions, world-record holders and American-record holders, in addition to several up-and-coming stars.

The discus competition is led by Ben Plucknett, who captured the world record a few weeks ago at the Modesto Relays. Other tossers include former Oregon athlete and world record holder Mac Wilkins; Knut Hjeltnes, ranked fourth in the world last year; and another former Duck, Dave Vorhees.

The 5,000 field includes 10 runners with times under 13:35 and 18 under 13:50. Included in that are local favorites Dick Quax, a coach for Athletics West, and former Duck Matt Centrowitz.

The men's and women's 800 have something in common — a locally-trained athlete going for a fast time. Kenya's Mike Boit, a 1972 Olympic silver medalist and University grad student, ran one of the fastest times in the world this season (1:45.32) last weekend at the Jumbo Elliot Classic. His lifetime best is 1:43.6.

The women's race has Oregon's Leann Warren, the recently crowned AIAW champion in the 800. She will try to improve on her personal best of 2:01.3 with a field that includes Kenya's Techia Chemabwai (2:00.1), Athletics West's Essie Kelly (2:02.34) and Debbie Campbell of Canada (2:02.8).

Tom Byers, winner of last weekend's Twilight Mile, will face New Zealand's John Walker in the 1,500. Other 1,500 competitors include Graham Williamson and Craig Masback.

The women's 1,500 could be a very tight race with AIAW 3,000 champ Regina Joyce (4:12.7 this season in the 1,500), Joan Hansen (4:12), Brenda Webb (4:12.9), Maggie Keyes (4:13.4) and Debbie Scott (4:11.1).

The top three finishers in last year's Olympic Trials javelin will compete Saturday. Rod Ewaliko (291-0), Bruce Kennedy (287-0) and Duncan Atwood (285-5) will be joined by Bob Roggy (293-7), the NCAA champion in 1978.

Ken Martin, a former Duck now competing for Athletic West, will compete in a strong steeplechase field.

Two former American record holders will go at it in the women's high jump. Louise Ritter (6-4 $\frac{3}{4}$) and Joni Huntley (6-4 $\frac{3}{4}$), an assistant coach at Oregon State, will try to recapture the record snagged by Pam Spencer (6-5 $\frac{1}{4}$) last week.

Other events include the steeplechase with Athletics West's Ken Martin and field all with bests under 8:32, and the 100 hurdles with AIAW 400 hurdles champion Robin Marks and Oregon athletes Lexie Miller and Kris Costello.

The Pre Classic will be preceded at 11 a.m. by a meet for high school and open athletes. Event winners will advance to the Pre competition.
