

Co-op will add house, open soon

The Students Cooperative Association, owners of Campbell Club, will open a second cooperative house in time to accommodate University summer session students.

The SCA purchased a $175,000 house at 1790 Alder St., June 5 — about one block from Campbell Club.

Several loans and grants will be used to pay for the house, according to Campbell Club Pres. Monica Harrington.

A major part of the financing came from the National Consumer Cooperative Bank. Also, the West University Neighbors' Neighborhood Advisory Group has approved $12,500 to $25,000 in Community Development Funds to help the association purchase the house, Harrington says.

The house, which can accommodate 31 students, will be available for residence summer session.

The cost for meals and a single room is $400 for the eight-week summer session and $510 for the 11-week session.

The cost for meals and a double room is $325 for eight weeks and $405 for 11 weeks.

Rooms will be available between summer session and fall term at $15 per week.

The house is open to anyone.

Campbell Club was founded in 1935 and named for Wallace Campbell, one of the founders of CARE who studied cooperatives of the Depression era for a master's thesis at the University.

Talks go on with GTFs

An agreement on the wording of six new contract articles has been reached in negotiations between the University and the Graduate Teaching Fellows Federation.

The contract articles deal with work environment, grievances, contract disputes, arbitration, discipline and discharge, and late fees.

The GTFF has withdrawn proposals on three other articles.

The change in the article on work environment gives graduate teaching fellows access to the University's emergency communication system. The change was prompted by several reported instances of women GTFs being harassed in their offices while working late at night.

Agreement has not been reached on articles dealing with load, salary, health care and fair share.

Contract negotiations between the two groups began on Feb 16.
