

Heat, humidity spoil Duck chances

NCAA points evade Oregon

Louisiana wasn't kind to the Ducks.

Oregon's attempts to score and to claim a few elusive national titles at the NCAA track and field championships were thwarted as expected scorers failed to place and expected titles slipped away from them.

Baton Rouge's high humidity combined with the heat knocked the Ducks out of the races.

Friday, Alberto Salazar finished fourth in the 10,000 meters to a University of Texas-El Paso trio, running 28:53.5. Salazar had to be doused with ice after the race to lower his body temperature.

Greg Erwin finished far back in the 10,000.

The one-two-three finish by the UTEP athletes — Suleiman Nyambui, Michael Musyoki and Matthews Motshwarateu — indicated things to come. UTEP claimed its third NCAA straight outdoor championship with 70 points, followed by Southern Methodist with 57 and Tennessee with 50.

Oregon ended the three days with only 16 points, leaving them out in a four-way tie for 11th with about a third of the points the Ducks expected to compile.

Trouble started early for the beleaguered Ducks. David Mack failed to qualify for the finals in the 800 meters. A fast heat put him out of contention as Mack finished fifth in 1:47.62.

Oregon's 400-meter relay team was also knocked out of the finals as it finished fourth in 40.86.

Saturday began, and ended, just as dismally. Jim Hill, Rudy Chapa and Mike Friton all failed to place in their events.

Off the track, though, the Ducks did get a few points. But the points weren't always as many as Oregon expected.

Reidar Lorentzen came through with an excellent series of javelin throws that was topped by a toss of 269-5. But despited recording five of the top six throws of the day he finished second when Mike Juskus of Glassboro State threw a personal best of 273-2 on his final attempt.

Oregon's other points, besides Salazar's fourth, came in the discus as Dean Crouser finished fourth with a toss of 200-5. Although it was Crouser's first toss over 200 since the Ducks faced Cal-Berkeley a month ago, it was less than expected. Crouser threw 213-0 earlier this season.

But the toss, the last in his series, did propel Crouser from sixth to fourth place. The discus was won by Scott Crowell of Iowa State with a toss of 206-3.

The heat and humidity proved to be the bane of Oregon's distance crew again Saturday.

Friton was out of contention in the steeplechase, running 10th in 8:58.71 after qualifying in 8:35.86, far behind the leader Solomon Chebor of Farleigh Dickinson, who finished in 8:23.34.

The 5,000 was equally disappointing as Hill and Chapa finished seventh and ninth, respectively. Hill took the lead on the third lap and ran 63, 66, 66 and 67 seconds before surrendering the lead and fading into the pack. A fast finishing kick was needed for him to claim seventh in 13:56.4.

Reidar Lorentzen captured second with a 269-5 throw, but had five of the top six marks in the javelin.

Chapa finished ninth in 14:03.2.

UTEP's Nyambui ran away from the field to finish in 13:38.8 to claim his fifth NCAA outdoor title.

Overall, it just wasn't Oregon's weekend. But it was UTEP's.

Borg wins French Open

PARIS (AP) — Swedish superstar Bjorn Borg toiled for nearly 3 1/4 hours Sunday before outlasting a tenacious Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1 for a record sixth French Open tennis title and his fourth in a row.

It was the closest the 25-year-old Borg has come to being toppled since he first won this prestigious clay court tournament in 1974.

The title was disputed in long, close rallies on the slow surface of the center court at Roland Garros Stadium before 16,000 fans. Lendl, 21, held his own in one rally after another until Borg finally had the last word in a rally of 34 strokes.

Borg won a first prize of $49,000 and went into the record books as the first to win the French title six times.
