

Local job outlook appears bleak

With unemployment in the Eugene/Springfield area running at 10 percent, jobs are not easy to find.

"Basically it's a buyers market right now," says Ken Masterson, director of the University branch of the employment department. "Employers can ask for pretty much what they want in terms of qualifications."

But while the employment outlook is bleak, jobs are available for those willing to pound the pavement, Masterson says.

"The people that normally do hiring at this time of year are not coming to us," he says. "Restaurants seem to hiring right at the door."

There are jobs, especially part-time or temporary ones, available but there aren't as many jobs as people looking for work. "As soon as jobs go up we fill them very quickly," Masterson says.

The employment office does have a few suggestions for people seeking work in the local area.

First, get on the streets and look for the job, that includes visiting potential employers and the employment office. "People looking for work should check the employment boards every day," he says.

Second, look appropriate for the job.

Third, present the appearance of being a reliable worker — on time and well informed.

And, finally, go to the library and check out a book on how to look for work. "It's a valuable aid," Masterson says. "If you can't do anything else, do those things."

"But I'm afraid at this point in time I don't have anything more than standard advice for people. We'd like to have lots of jobs available, but that just isn't the situation."

Students looking for work should be advised that the employment office on campus — 1511 Agate St. — has mostly part-time or temporary employment. The office downtown — 432 W. 11th Ave. — has more full-time and permanent positions.

But people should realize the employment office won't get them a job. "They have to be in there looking for it," Masterson says. "There are plenty of people that are."

Health center gives aid to students during week

Being ill is never enjoyable, but summer students can find out what ails them with at the Student Health Center — provided they visit between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

During the rest of the week students should see a private physician or visit a local emergency room.

Despite the limited hours, the health center is offering most of the basic services — everything from lab tests to X-rays. The basic needs are covered, says center medical administrator Carl Schwartz. "But it's definitely not 24-hour care."

Shows feature textiles, prints

The University art museum's featured exhibits this summer will be selected textiles and contemporary American prints chosen from the museum's permanent collection.

The textile show, which runs June 25 to Aug. 16, has been scheduled to coincide with the 10th biennial conference of the Northwest Weavers' Guilds, to be held June 25 through 28 at the Lane County Fairgrounds, says museum designer and preparator Tommy Griffin.

Griffin says some of the 50 textiles selected, ranging from silk brocades to African straw mats, have not been displayed since 1950.

More than 30 contemporary prints from the 1970s, including works by Alexander Calder, Roy Lichtenstein, Carl Morris and Andy Warhol, will be on display June 25 through Aug. 16. Many of the prints are recent gifts to the museum, and will be exhibited for the first time, Griffin says.

Besides providing general medical treatment, the center is equipped with facilities for minor surgery and will be visited during the summer by a gynecologist on an appointment basis.

As usual, the hospital facility will be closed during the summer — and it will stay closed throughout the coming year.

"It (the hospital) is definitely closed for one year," Schwartz said. "We'll be reviewing what to do after that during the interim — looking at our various options."

The decision to close the 26-bed hospital was made during spring term, with low use and high cost cited as reasons for the decision.

However, the health center will continue to offer most of the services it has offered in the past.

Even though most of the regular clinics — such as sports medicine — are closed during the summer, the health center still gives help to those who need it.

The cost of seeing a doctor is paid at summer registration, but the fee does not cover any lab work, medicine, X-rays, allergy shots or special services.

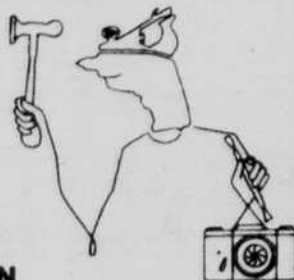

Insurance is available through the ASUO, which offers comprehensive accident and illness plans for students and their dependents. Coverage does extend beyond the University and includes hospital stays of up to 30 days, surgical expenses up to $1,000, ambulance service and choice of doctor.

Student health insurance also is available during summer registration from the Business Office at 130 Oregon Hall or at Metzker & Associates, 70 E. 13th Ave., 342-4868.

FASTEST DEVELOPING IN TOWN*

*No, not really...

except on slide processing from Kodak, which normally takes one day. We take 2-5 days for print developing and up to two weeks for enlargements and other work. We frequently find an order has to be printed more than once to satisfy our lab's quality control inspector. And boy, is he picky. Other labs give you the first printing regardless of quality. By the way, all of your 135 color negs come back in individual protective sleeves.

CHEAPEST*

*No, we're not that either but...

you really didn't expect our kind of quality to be at discount store prices. Most of Eugene's pros use our lab. P.S. We're not too expensive either — $4.39 for 12 exp. Kodacolor II, if they all turn out.
