possible spring allergy problems should come in early for treatment.

"If they wait until spring, it could be too late," he says.

The sports medicine clinic is geared toward the treatment of any injuries — even if not sports related. The clinic was started a year ago and already has proven its worth to students, Jackson says.

"We can handle many of the injuries encountered, and we can rehabilitate them here through exercises and other physical therapy," he says.

The health center also offers a mental health clinic with in-
