Making the most of a... WET WEEKEND

Chance of rain today is 70%, and 30% tonight.
