

White winter!

Clockwise from upper right: The first week of 1982 met students with a winter freeze, and most agreed inside was the best place to be.

A couple head toward registration amid five inches of snow and a low fog early Monday morning.

Tuesday, a lone student cautiously planted each foot on her way to the dorms.

Campus workmen continued to clear walkways Wednesday, even though the high temperature reached only 28 degrees.

Forecasters predict fair weather today, with rain likely Friday. Weekend is expected to melt most of the remaining snow and ice.

Photos by Bob Baker

